So . . .

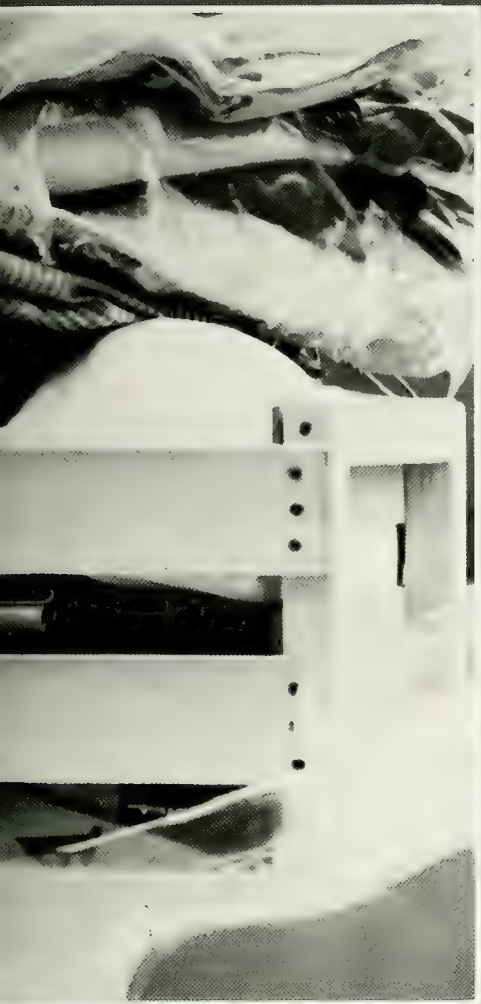

... it's another year, another beginning. What's so special about this year? What's so special about us this year? Maybe it's a change in attitude. Not an abrupt change ... gradual. Our fads have changed from flagpole sitting and goldfish swallowing to anti-war protests, political campaigning, and ecology. Ours seem more relevant to us, but are they just that — fads?

Sure, it's another year. Another beginning with problems and challenges. Will we face them differently? Maybe ...

the question is . . .
and why. and why not.
it's only a game
isn't it?

we live and we try to understand but the answers seem to have escaped us.

and the question is
why should we worry
all these years
and lose all hope when everything is pressed against the window pane of life,

naked it exists
concealed and disguised
from our eyes

we see its beauty
life is passing
but it is real
for the moment

good morning people,
and the question is . . .

Whenever I need to leave it all behind or feel the need to get away

I find a quiet place

far from the human race

Out in the country.

Before the breathing air is gone

Before the sun is just a bright spot

in the night-time

Out where the rivers like to run

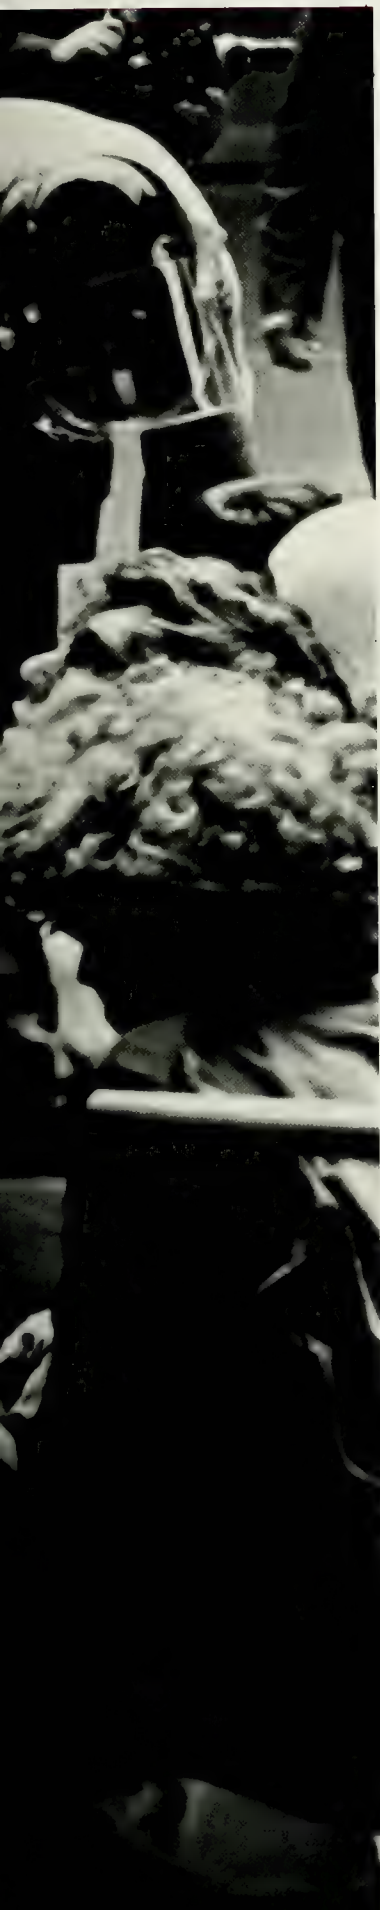

I stand alone

and take back something worth remembering.

Three Day Night

Sometimes I feel tired — real tired. My only hope appears to be under a three-ton truck. It would be much easier . . . no more responsibilities, worries.

Why did I have to live? Too many problems. I can't take it. I don't have enough time to take care of all the troubles that face me and my friends. I wish someone else would take care of some of them.

Why is life so difficult? God, I'd like to run away. Why are so many things messed up?

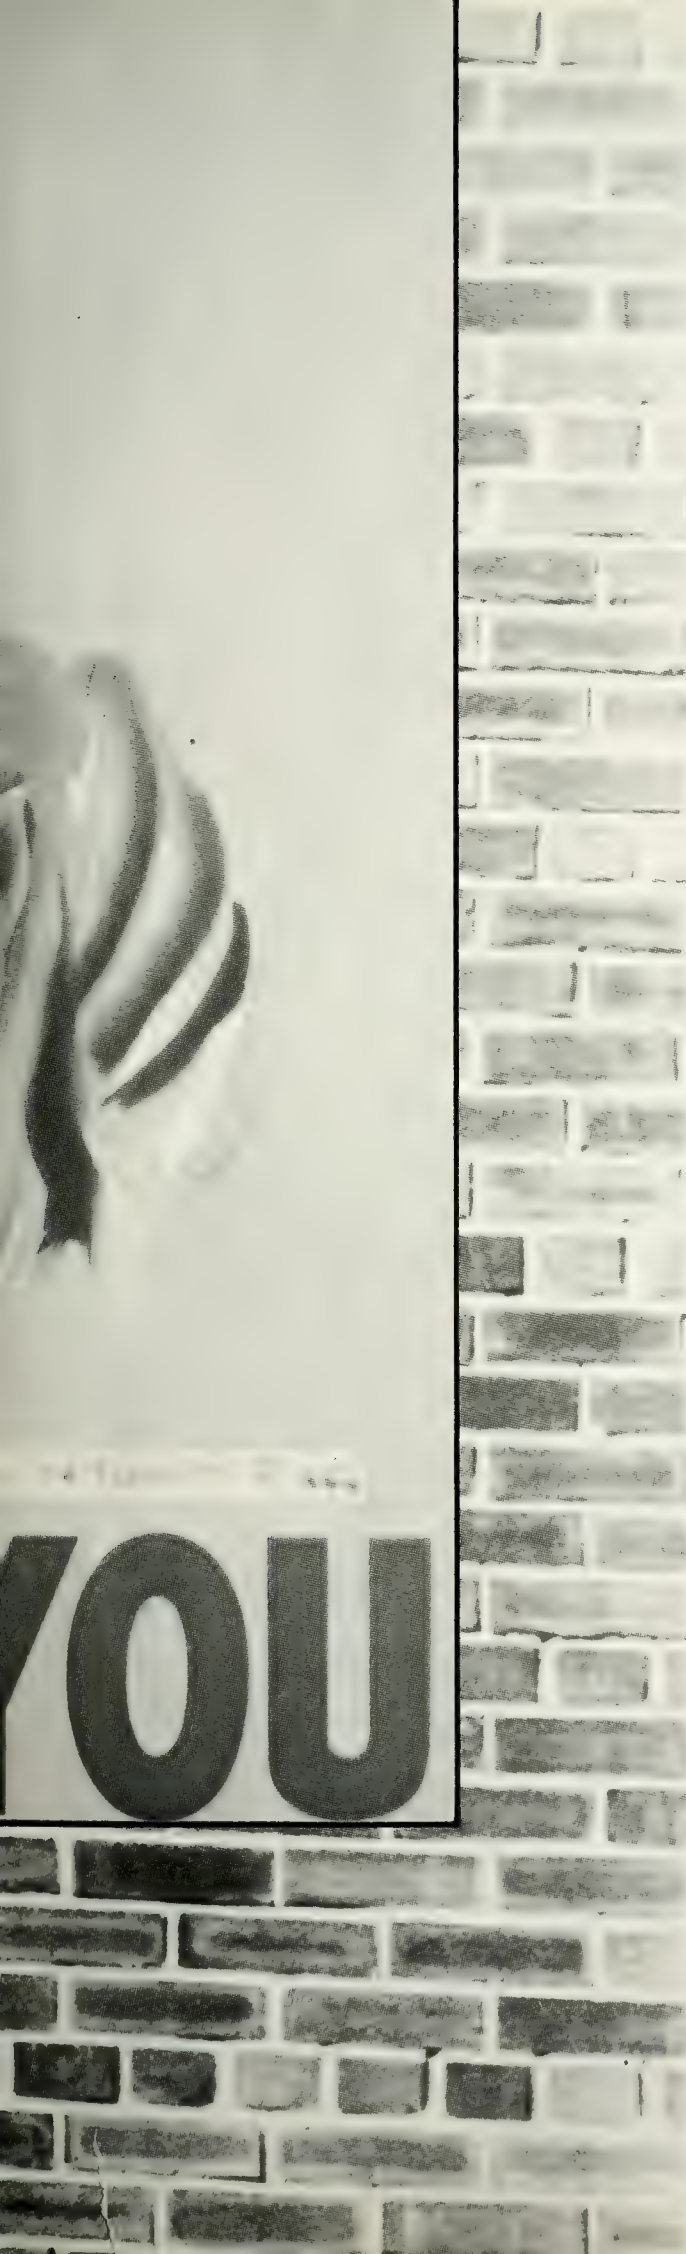

Didn't anybody ever try to do anything before?

I WANT YOU

Rocking back, almost to the point of disaster, the old man shifted his weight in the battered rocker, re-lit his gnarled pipe, and started to tell me another story of danger and derring-do from his endless war collection. His stories were always about heroes; it seemed that's all he knew. They never failed to excite me. I always wanted to be just like the men in his stories — to be brave, to save the lives of other men, to participate in tremendous battles, to win medals. The old man admired these men as much as I did. He could remember eating with them, talking with them, playing with them . . . I vowed to be a soldier when I grew up. I longed for their glamorous life. My brother died in Viet Nam last week . . .

Come and hide
With me
In shadows of loneliness
And maybe the sun will return,
For clouds and gray cannot Possess
Us forever.

Make me see
That life
Is where the flowers grow
And that the soul nourishes them
Through Faith and Hope;
That never will come a day
Without Love.

Listen

I don't apologize for being hard to know
I am what I am sulking will not change that but apple pies and warm hands help and I have never known a cat (that couldn't) calm me down by walking slowly past my chair

So I'll smile for you in winter
if you'll go easy
and fill your rooms with roses when I lay if you'll stop beating me with words and if in bed
you never turn away

—Rod McKuen

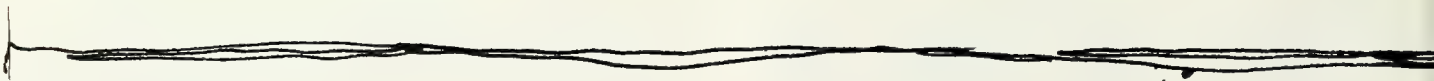

Sergeant Friday's closing comments echoed in my mind: drugs can kill, they can permanently scar an individual for life, they have broken up many homes, they lead to criminal acts of the greatest magnitude.

I bet he never even tried the stuff. How can he possibly judge what he has never experienced? That's what's wrong, too many goddamn authorities on every subject under the sun. If I want to smoke, I'm not hurting anyone.

Hey kid —

So they brought you to school
And left you standing here
All alone

In the middle of a group.

So that's happened before.

Only what d'ya say?

Where are all those things you saw in the pictures?

It's different now.

Hell, you're almost a man —

Lunches don't come in paper bags any more

And Bobbys have all turned to Roberts

And everybody ties his own shoes.

No. This isn't like grade school

High school's in the past, too

And girls are just half twists of smiles

Behind curtains of hair.

But it's OK, kid,

You'll be alright.

Isn't that what they told you

When they left you standing here

All alone

In the middle of a group?

When a man TELLS you that he loves his work, you think him a pretender. For words are merely tools with which to climb.

But when you can READ that love in his EYES, then truth is staring you in the face.

You know that he loves an inner air. An inner light in which freedom lives and in which a man can draw the breath of self-respect.

You can see in his eyes the quality of his yesterdays,
the vision of his tomorrow.
Clearly.

For to him, the distinction between what is good and what is not is as obvious as a blink.

Like a tree whose roots grow deeper with each storm, so a man's eyes open wider with the knowledge of self.

The Purdue All-American Marching Band

One week of practice per game doesn't sound like much, but a marching band is required to put together a precision program in only that amount of time. For two hours every weekday afternoon the leaders of the Purdue All-American Band ride herd on a group of student musicians and put together a half-time show that is meant to please an enthused collection of alums and students.

PART VIII: The Plot

A first-game victory against scrappy TCU seemed like a sure thing for the Boilermakers, even though they had been beaten everywhere but on the scoreboard. TCU quarterback Judy came within one yard of his best ever, and the Boilers lost out 217 of its 272 total yards on the ground — no State style. Only Jeff Jones' field goal and a pair of fourth quarter touchdowns by Scott Clayton gave Purdue the victory. But it was the defense's first shutout at home since 1966, and rookie quarterback Chuck Piebes took his first lesson well in stride. Greg Bingham was UPI Midwest Lineman of the Week, and the team awarded Coach DeMoss the game ball. South Bend, however, was horse of a different color. In a gusty drizzle, three Purdue quarterbacks completed 10 passes for a total of 48 yards. After the toss of the coin, Notre Dame took the opening drive and reached for a score. While Piebes hit on 15 of 20 passes, Otis Armstrong rushed for 120 yards to lead the Big Ten. With the victory, Purdue broke a ten-year string of home wins by the Indians. But in the process the Boilers lost two men for the season. With both centers out, injuries played a big role in the loss to Michigan. Ashley Bell and Stan Brown were hobbled, and Armstrong was held to 11 yards in 14 carries. Fumbles and interceptions put the defense with their backs to the wall all afternoon, and gradually the Wolverines pulled away. The Boilermakers had played better than their 2-2 record indicated, the season was still young and there was much time left. After spotting Iowa a 3-0 lead, DeMoss called on Mike Renie to kick a 47-yard field goal, a Purdue record, on his very first try as a varsity player. Otis Armstrong took a handoff from Piebes and rambled 63 yards off right tackle for six points. The big "O" tallied 164 yards in 25 carries to lead all conference rushers. Arnold Carter's 90-yard runback of an intercepted pass set a new conference record and spoiled Iowa's Homecoming.

Purdue prepared for Northwestern with a 1-1 conference record and a little confidence behind them as the coaching staff readied the Boiler defense for number two rusher Mike Adamle and quarterback Maurie Daigneau.

The Riveters rode into Dyche Stadium with good weather conditions and a five-game winning streak on the line, but found rough going from the start. They stayed close for awhile, but the Wildcats' superior depth and experience began to show, and the Boilermakers slipped — and — to stay. Daigneau had his greatest day, while Adamle was unstoppable — he threw two passes from his fullback slot for touchdowns. Coming home to Ross-Ade Stadium to face the Illini, Purdue tried to kick on a winning note, but in the first half the Danielson-Armstrong tandem broke through the Illini's defense. A desperate last-second punt by the Boilers gave them a sure Purdue score. The first half ended 23-0. In the second half, Daigneau was twice in the last minute of the game, but the Boilers' pointment on the field was

It was a narrow victory for the Buckeyes, and their national ranking dropped from second to fifth.

The Riveters were supercharged after the Ohio State contest and tore into the Hoosiers with a vengeance. Stan Brown ran the third quarter kickoff all the way back 100 yards before a capacity crowd, the largest ever to watch a football game in the state of Indiana. Purdue gained 484 total yards — 368 of them on the ground. The defense was superb, holding IU to only 176 yards; Indiana entered Boilermaker territory only once. Armstrong rambled 77 yards to the one-foot line where he was pushed out of bounds. Senior safety Steve deGrandmaison intercepted two passes in the last quarter, and defensive end Rick Tekavec added ten solo tackles. The win gave Purdue a season record of four wins and six losses. For head Coach Bob DeMoss, it was a trying year, a difficult year. For the team, it had been a disappointing year, with too many mistakes and too few points on the scoreboard. Except for IU ...

More than determination, it takes natural speed to win. For the Purdue harriers, it was a long autumn — someone was always faster. Bob Swank headed the Boiler-maker squad, with Tom Moeller and Paul Erler following closely behind. Erler finished the season 16th in the state. Joe Daley demonstrated natural running ability and should be a standout next year. Although the team dropped to eighth place in the Big Ten, hopefully next season will reflect the efforts of this year's work.

Soccer

1971 saw experience and teamwork finally pay off in soccer as the team jelled and saw its best season in seven years. After romping over Earlham 4-5 the soccer Boilers lost a baffling 0-1 contest in which five Purdue shots bounced off the goal posts. Needless to say, none took a Purdue bounce. Led by Most Valuable Players Fritz Kuhn and Hank Wilkinson, the team compiled a record of 4-5. Along with Kuhn and Wilkinson, goalie Gene Fitzpatrick participated in the East-West State Game. Kuhn was named Most Valuable Defenseman. Only four members are graduating this year, so the future looks bright for Coach Eicholtz.

Faces in the Crowd

Although the football season was short on victories, it was long on Victory Varieties. Operating this year with a combination student-staff committee and with new chairman Herb Schaller, V-Squared took on a new look. 1970 saw shows featuring everyone from Tonight Show star, Doc Severnson to Chicago and B. B. King. Student input has finally begun to show up in Purdue's entertainment selection. After the controversial 1970 Grand Prix concert, the V²-Pop Stars committee has moved increasingly toward trying to entertain Purdue students first and the Lafayette community second.

The Tragedy of Philip

Klear

Philip Klear knew that morning, pulling himself out of bed, that his life was unquestionably nearing its end. After the past thirteen agonizingly boring years, he felt he must do something other than lie in bed and take pills until his last day. Since the death of his last wife, he really had nothing to live for. Upon recollection, the past seventy-six years had not been that bad. True, he had worked very hard, but the results more than equalized the difficulty and hardship. "King of the Pulp Paper Industry," a title affectionately affixed to him by his cohorts, was just about all he had left — along with ten million dollars! Too bad, when your health goes, nothing else matters . . .

The monotonous regularity of the approaching footsteps warned Phil that his nurse was coming — carrying his usual breakfast and some more of those goddamn pills. If ever there was a person to hate, it surely had to be Mrs. Bland, R. N., the indefatigable champion of personal hygiene and twentieth century medicine. As the door opened, Phil was surprised. Instead of the gnarling voice and rock-like features of nurse Bland, a pleasant "good morning Daddy" whispered by his beautiful daughter, Corie, greeted him. After her usual peck of a kiss to his forehead, she explained that Mrs. Bland no longer wished to be employed by him. It seemed that his cantankerous, finicky nature and his constant abuse of her had been too much. Corie explained that she had tried to procure another nurse but had been unsuccessful. Walking back through the door, she promised to keep trying and also — breakfast in a minute.

Alone once again, Phil set his mind to thinking; something he took great pride in being able to do well. When Corie returned with his breakfast, and fortunately no goddamn pills, he had already decided on a plan. He asked Corie to invite her two sisters to visit him on the next day. His plan, very simply, was to divide his wealth between his three daughters and then to let them take care of him for the rest of his life. He figured that with all the money he would give them, they would have no difficulty and no aversion to making his last few years very enjoyable.

The scene, the next afternoon, could have melted the heart of a rock. Phil, shaved, bathed, and dressed for traveling, could not hide his joy when he heard Jane, his eldest, say how much she and her husband would love to have him live with them. His good feeling continued when he heard Patti echo the same comments. She said that her children would love to have their grandpa come to live with them. Phil felt genuinely fortunate that he had such loving and considerate daughters. His joy turned to sorrow as he listened to Corie, his youngest and favorite daughter. She assured her father that she was sincere and she apologized for thinking that it would be unwise for him to live with her young family. She believed that a household was designed for one husband, one wife, and if they were so blessed, their own children. She said that she loved her father as any good daughter should and that she was thankful for all he had done for her, but she was now on her own and she wanted to remain that way. Phil, in his usual short-tempered manner, flew into a rage, yelled until he could no longer speak, and finally told Corie that he never wanted to see her again. Corie left the room sobbing . . .

Both Jane and Patti thought the way Corie acted was disgraceful and immediately began to console their poor, dear, hoarse daddy. They led him to believe that any daughter who would not help her own father when he needed it was not worth even calling a daughter. Later that day, Philip Klear, with the help of Jane's husband, moved into their house.

For the next three weeks, Phil could not have been happier. Jane catered to his every whim, the grandchildren loved to play with him and her husband never could quite beat him at pool. Eventually though, Phil became bored. His mind began to wander and he began to think of past adventures in his life. As the days passed, Phil started seeing some of his old friends — cronies, as Jane called them. In fact, they even started dropping by the house. More than one night was spent drinking whiskey, smoking cigars, and rehashing old tales. As this activity usually went on all night, and Jane did not want her children seeing or hearing what was taking place, she began to get annoyed. She complained to her father, but he would hear nothing of the subject. He was enjoying himself, so little else mattered. In addition, he felt pretty secure in his daughter's home because of the money he had given her. He thought that he would have a home for as long as he needed one. As it turned out, he thought wrong. After a series of arguments with Jane, she asked Phil to leave her home, so he moved in with Patti.

From the beginning, Patti and her father did not get along. She was aware of the difficulties Jane had experienced. She refused to allow her father any visitors, she kept all of the liquor hidden, and she allowed him only two cigars a day. In addition, she complained about his lack of cooperation in keeping the house clean, the amount of dirty laundry he produced, and his picky eating habits. She did not appreciate at all his colorful but foul language in the presence of the children. Phil was ill at ease from the first day. He had lived as he goddamn-well-pleased for the past seventy-six years and he'd be god-damned if he was going to put up with any nagging females now. In one of his usual fits of anger, he threw his few belongings together and stormed out of the house. It did not dawn on him until evening that he was now homeless, hungry, and above all, penniless. He had given everything to his two "loving" daughters, saving nothing for himself.

For the next six months Phil did little more than beg for quarters, food, and bottles of apple wine. The alleys of Toledo, Ohio became his home. What few possessions he did bring along were pawned quickly to get money to buy food. In every sense of the word, Philip Klear had been reduced to a poor, drunken bum.

One day though, in December of 1970, fate ran its usual course and brought together two drifting souls — Phil Klear and Steve Glouster. Steve was a young man of about twenty who had been evicted from his house by his father. The story was that Steve had been involved in an auto accident one evening while driving his father's car. Because he was drunk at the time, the court appearance and jail sentence had a tremendous effect on his father. When he got home, Earl Glouster simply informed him that he never wanted to see him again. Phil and Steve struck up an immediate friendship.

After a couple of months of sharing the same alley shacks, the same food, the same apple wine, and everything else they came upon, Phil and Steve developed a firm friendship. They even began to tell each other about their earlier family lives. Phil listened with interest when Steve told him about his brother, Ernie, who had caused him to fall into disfavor with his father. It had been Ernie who had the accident involving Mr. Glouster's car. Because Ernie ran away from the scene of the accident, and since Steve had passed out in the car, he was the only one found by the police at the scene.

He also talked about the fantastic love affairs of which his brother always bragged. According to Ernie, a greater lover never lived. Phil thought it a coincidence, however, when he was told that Ernie's greatest love affair involved two sisters, Jane and Patti.

J. Ernest Glouster considered himself a true man of the world. He knew that he was cunning, sharp, and most of all, charming to women. Ah . . . women . . . just the thought made him smile. He figured that he had probably sampled more women than any other male in the world. Now, as he approached room 24 of the Lahr Hotel, he could only think of all the money that his latest venture would bring. Although Patti Barnhart was a truly beautiful woman, Ernie was much more interested in her wealth. He remembered hearing about her father and how he had left her a small fortune before suddenly disappearing. If he played his cards right, which usually meant blackmail as far as Ernie was concerned, some of that money would be his.

Patti's lovely jaw dropped about a yard when she finally realized that Ernie was not joking about telling her husband about their relationship. She became even more amazed after viewing the excruciatingly sharp 8 by 10 glossy photographs of her "in action." Ernie found it difficult to control his pleasure; his fingers itched with the anticipation of the money he would soon be spending.

Patti immediately turned to her sister, Jane, for help. Jane almost laughed when Patti related to her the problem. She had already seen Corie's future shaken and now, Patti was on the brink of disaster. What was left of her sisterly love vanished quickly when she realized she was the sole successful survivor of the Klear family. Her sisterly love returned very quickly though, when the name Ernie Glouster was finally mentioned. Only three weeks earlier, Ernie had exploited her in exactly the same way. Though no one knew, her little mistake of infidelity had been costing her at the rate of five thousand dollars per month. The enjoyment of her sister's problem had been sweet, but short-lived. They both agreed that in more than one way, they had both been "screwed" by Ernie.

It was not until two years later than Corie discovered that her father no longer lived with her sisters. Communication between the three Klear sisters had dropped drastically since that day in their father's old home. Even though she could still hear her father's last words ringing in her ears, she decided that she must find him — if he were still alive — and do whatever she could for him. However, since Corie was no longer living in Toledo, she had absolutely no idea where to start. Contacting her sisters and her father's old friends provided no helpful clues. As a last resort, she decided to return to Toledo and simply look.

Phil could not remember the last time he had been sober; what is more, he did not even care. Today though, he sensed something strange — something was wrong. He was positive that he knew every back alley, every shack, trash bin, and condemned building in Toledo. He always knew where to find a not-quite-empty bottle of wine, a dollar whenever he needed one, or a warm place to sleep. The chilling sensation of being lost though, now crept up his spine. He could not recognize any familiar landmarks, everything looked blurred. In fact, he did not even know where Steve was. Trying to stifle his coughing in his tattered gloves and to pull himself out from under the loading dock where he usually slept, he collapsed. He was frightened; not being able to see is one thing, not being able to walk is another. Phil knew that his health had been slipping fast, but he never expected to reach the predicament he was now in. With the help of a passing trucker, Phil managed to get to his feet. He began walking into the most fateful day of his life.

The ambulances arrived together. A three fatality accident was a noteworthy event even in Toledo. The morticians did not have much to work with however, one old tramp and two unrecognizable corpses.

Corie screeched her blue Tempest to a stop in the first available parking space. The old man stumbling across the last alley looked like her father. She could not believe it; tears began swelling in her eyes. To be successful on only the fourth day of her search was more than she had even prayed for. Hurriedly grasping for the door handle, she literally forced the door open. That was the last thing she remembered.

Ernie knew that he should not have been driving. Closing up that last bar had definitely been a mistake. In addition to losing the delightful young thing he had picked up earlier, he was now too drunk to drive. He felt pretty lucky though, never had an accident in his life . . . The blue parked car was the last thing he saw.

The explosion was devastating. The agonizing sound of metal grinding on metal gave way to a sound so deafening as to scare even the fearless. Ernie's out-of-control Eldorado smashed directly into the Tempest's left rear fender — directly into the gas tank. The resulting explosion may have been a one in a million chance, but that one chance did occur. Neither Corie nor Ernie knew what happened. Death was instantaneous.

The force of the explosion threw Phil into the alley wall. Upon regaining consciousness, he thought he heard two policemen tell a reporter that the names of the dead persons were Cordelia D. Klear and James Ernest Glouster. He was sure that he had once known a very pretty girl named Cordelia, but then he could not be positive. He did not want to be bothered anyway. For the first time in his life, he was genuinely comfortable . . .

Two days passed before Steve Glouster read of the tragedy in the newspaper. As he stared into the grounds at the bottom of his coffee cup, he could only mutter, "you got them all, Ernie, You got them all . . ."

ACTIVITIES . . . ONLY AT TARKINGTON

Study breaks . . . for an hour . . . or the rest of the night . . . covered with paint . . . or soaked to the skin. They're worth it. They make Monday closer to Friday. And Physics labs at least bearable. How else could we ever survive? Or ignore the programs that never run?

Only at Tarkington Hall.

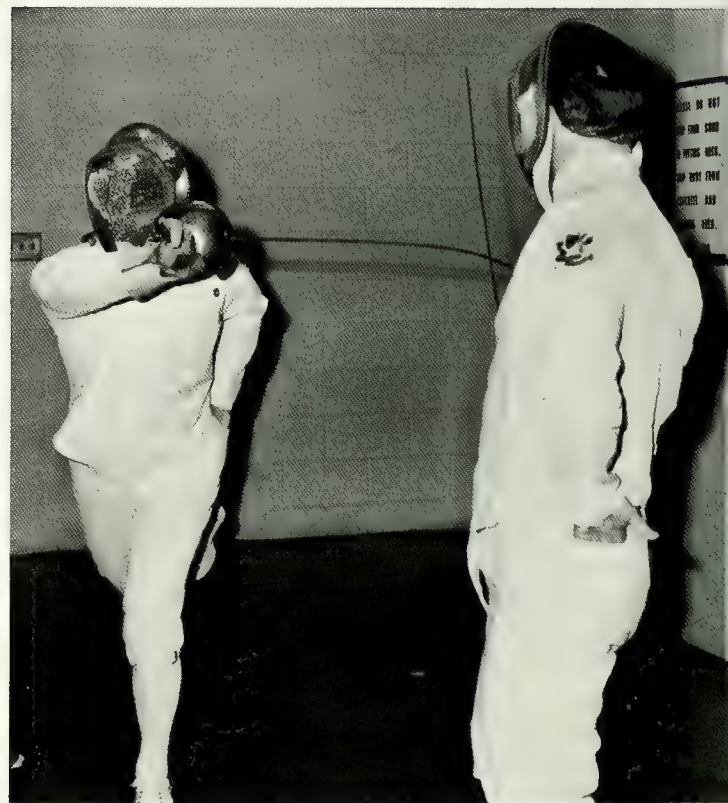

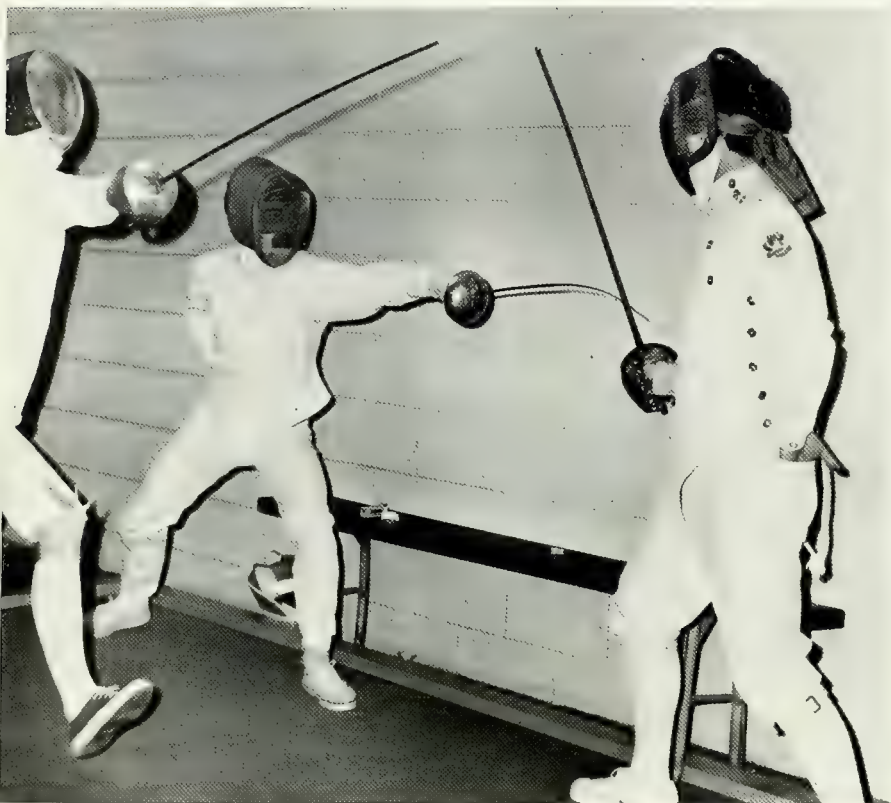

MEREDITH

"Wow, what a groove it was making that silly sign last night. Sure was cold, but I didn't care. There we were, stuffing tissue paper through chickenwire while singing, "Hail, Hail to 'Ole Purdue" . . . at least I think that's what it was. Almost as great as the time we played poker 'till two a.m., or sang old hits on the baby grand, or . . . oh well, better hit the books. Sure wish I didn't have that exam tomorrow."

FENCING CLUB

This was the second year of active competition for the Purdue Fencing Club. Competition teams in foil, sabre, and epee showed much improvement as increased experience began to pay off. Among the many varsity teams that Purdue has met were Ohio State, Indiana, Chicago, Notre Dame, Wisconsin, Detroit, Illinois, and Bowling Green.

Coaching staff members are Bill Espinosa, head coach; Max Callao and Jack Goldfeather, foil; Steve Hoffmann, sabre; and Paul Bevilaqua, epee.

EXTRAMURAL AND PERFORMANCE CLUB

Basketball, soccer, and volleyball . . . no sport is too much for this hardy bunch of girls. You might find them on the gridiron, dribbling across the ten second line, or spiking the ball over the net, but wherever you find them you can bet they are having a good time. Who says a girl can't "swish" a basket, score a goal, or even "stuff" one occasionally.

COURSE AND INSTRUCTOR EVALUATION

How many times have you, the student, wished to give a grade to an instructor? The members of Course and Instructor Evaluation do just that. Through questionnaires, a team of students compile an evaluation of many courses and instructors at Purdue. Considered one of the best such programs in the country, Course and Instructor Evaluation could cause a major change in course selection. As a result of their efforts, students will be picking their own professors by the spring semester of 1971.

KAPPA EPSILON

KAPPA EPSILON is an honorary for girls in pharmacy — girls who have prescribed for themselves a typically busy year. For example, in addition to taking part in the dedication of and sponsoring tours through the new pharmacy building, the girls make the decorations for the annual SAPHA Convention, and work for the Region IV Pharmacy Convention. As if this weren't enough, they also sell pharmacy decals as a money making project. Yes, the girls of Kappa Epsilon have filled their prescription.

KKΨ

KAPPA KAPPA PSI, the band honorary for men, functions as more or less a service organization. Each fall before classes resume the members run the Freshman Leadership Camp for incoming freshman band members. Also, during the year, they hold many money raising projects including the operation of the "Kloset," and the sale of Halloween pumpkins — "Gamme Pi Great Pumpkin Growing Project". The money made from these projects is used for chapter projects and activities.

TBΣ

TAU BETA SIGMA, girl's band honorary, like Kappa Kappa Psi, is a busy organization. Their activities include ushering for the symphony concerts and acting as hostesses for receptions, especially on Mother's Day and before concerts. Tau Beta Sigma also performs service projects for the band.

The fifty brothers of KAPPA PSI PHARMACEUTICAL FRATERNITY placed emphasis on the performance of professionally oriented activities. Functions throughout the year included: the organization and performance of a diabetes drive for people in the local area, assistance in the administration of organizing a rubella vaccine to children in the area, an annual car wash with Kappa Epsilon, a spring banquet and the sponsoring of a display case in the pharmacy building.

PURDUE ENGINEER

The PURDUE ENGINEER started out as a small technical journal 74 years ago. Today it is a glossy-paged magazine containing articles on subjects ranging from current Purdue research and industrial projects to the challenging quiz known as "Brain Drain" and a menagerie of jokes called the "Lion's Roar." However, the backbone of the magazine is student authored material, the best of which is given the Purdue Magazine Sherwood Awards.

CHEMICAL SOCIETY

THE AMERICAN CHEMICAL SOCIETY—THE FIRST AFFILIATE organization composed of undergraduates in chemistry at Cornell University. Members of the society devoted a day program to various activities centered at lower level chemistry courses. Research seminars were held and faculty members and chemical company representatives were invited to speak on such vital subjects as drug abuse and environmental pollution. Newly formed last spring, the Chemical Society already has approximately forty members.

CHEMICAL SOCIETY—Officers: President, John J. Murphy; Vice President, David H. Brown; Secretary, J. J. Murphy; Treasurer, J. J. Murphy; Publicity, J. J. Murphy; Editor, J. J. Murphy; Members: D. Murcia, J. Brewster, G. Drucker, E. Perkins, J. Murphy.

IM COUNCIL

THE IM COUNCIL is an organization meant to analyze and make improvements in the programs of the School of Industrial Management. To accomplish this, the council is divided into four committees. The first committee is working to create a co-op program similar to that of the School of Engineering. This co-op committee is gathering data to present before the undergraduate committee. The other three committees are the program committee, the academic committee, and the publicity committee. These committees in order to stimulate interest in IM, put out an IM Newsletter and publish an information booklet on the School of Industrial Management.

IM COUNCIL—President, J. J. Murphy; Vice President, J. J. Murphy; Secretary, J. J. Murphy; Treasurer, J. J. Murphy; Publicity, J. J. Murphy; Editor, J. J. Murphy; Members: D. Murcia, J. Brewster, G. Drucker, E. Perkins, J. Murphy.

4-H

The COLLEGIATE 4-H CLUB acts as a social club here on campus, drawing together approximately one hundred students with similar interests. However, the club extends itself beyond the campus by participating in the "International Farm Youth Exchange." Through a statewide fund raising drive, about twenty students from all over the state are sent abroad on a six month program to live with farm families of other countries.

COLLEGIATE 4-H OFFICERS: Front Row: T. Wilds, (1 V.P.), C. Cottingham (Asst. Sec.), M. Dysert (Sec.), B. Nagel (Membership). Middle Row: M. Baker (Rec.), A. Smith (2 V.P.), L. SNEA

STUDENT NATIONAL EDUCATION ASSOCIATION has over two hundred members and is open to all education majors. The members work with the education department, providing student opinions on education. The students in this society spend a great deal of time learning the latest teaching methods — accomplished by attending convocations and organizing programs that bring in student and practicing teachers to discuss their teaching experiences. SNEA members also work with high school FTA chapters and organize a volunteer tutoring program.

ΩXE

OMEGA CHI EPSILON is a national chemical engineering honorary whose goals are the promotion of high scholarship and original investigation in all branches of chemical engineering. For recreation, the organization had a picnic and a spring banquet. Omega Chi Epsilon also worked as a service organization to help the chemical engineering department.

OMEGA CHI EPSILON — Front Row: R. Squires (Advisor), D. Mohr (V. Pres.), S. Craig (Treas.), P. Garten (Sec.), J. Heering (President). Second Row: D. Dippon, R. Ige, D. Davis, J. Halliburton, J. AEROMODELERS

The AEROMODELERS CLUB consists of about 30 members who build model airplanes as both hobby and competitive sport. It meets on Thursday nights and, two or three times a year, holds "pylon contests," a racing event in which planes are flown in a circle on a tether line. The club has flown away with numerous awards at state and national contests as well as landing their own invitational meets here at Purdue.

PURDUE HOBBY CLUBS

The PURDUE HOBBY CLUBS are special interest groups which have been accepted for sponsorship by the Student Union. Office and workshop space are made available to them and assistance with publicity and purchasing of equipment is provided. Through this support by the Student Union many students have the opportunity to continue to enjoy their interests in these special areas while attending Purdue. Currently six Hobby Clubs are sponsored: AEROMODELERS, CAMERA CLUB, CHESS CLUB, AMATEUR RADIO CLUB, MODEL RAILROAD CLUB, and DUPLICATE BRIDGE CLUB.

PURDUE HORSEMAN OFFICERS — D. Lorenz (President), L. Herring (Treasurer), C. Landstrom (Secretary), J. Malott, L. Massom (Vice President).

PURDUE HORSEMAN

The PURDUE HORSEMAN CLUB galloped to many interesting and educational activities this year. It sponsored a horse show and trail ride; provided programs in which speakers talked on topics relating to horses; and set about instituting a queen contest. The horsemen not only corralled a lot of knowledge but lassoed a little fun as well.

CARY DANCES AMID CANDLEGLOW AND MISTLETOE

The largest dormitory on Purdue's campus, Cary Hall, began its holiday season with their annual Christmas formal; this year's theme being Candleglow and Mistletoe. The dance offered one change in tradition — tuxes were out for the guys, pant suits were in for their dates. Cary's other major winter activity was a Children's Christmas Party, held for underprivileged children from local families. In both cases, traditional Cary fun was the main attraction.

WINDSOR HALLS

Among the many social events sponsored by Windsor Halls, this year's "Starlit Odyssey" excelled in entertainment as well as attendance. After dining in residence hall elegance, couples danced to either Al Cobine and his orchestra or The Eperon, and returned home after an evening of escape from the ho-hum of college life. Winter Whispers provides this well deserved one night vacation each year to residents of the women's halls, Graduate House West, and their guests. With all of the planning and effort of a major production, the dance leaves many freshmen awestruck at the difference between this and last year's Senior Prom.

BOMB THREAT
ENTER AT YOUR OWN RISK

BOMB THREATS

Although 1970 saw no University structures destroyed, the seriousness of bomb scares can be measured by the inconvenience and uncertainty caused the Purdue students, firemen, and policemen. Increasing irritation in frequently threatened halls resulted in many students ignoring warnings to evacuate.

It is true that the Boilers had a losing football team, that the Victory Varieties may not have appealed to everyone, and that campus issues were virtually non-existent, but it can only be looked upon as unfortunate that some individuals had to resort to bomb threats for their autumn enjoyment.

Depending on the time of day, ten to fourteen policemen and firemen report at every bomb scare. More than twenty times, these men have been called to search buildings and evacuate students. Many man-hours are spent attempting to apprehend the originator(s) of Purdue's bomb threats.

After the Purdue Police interviewed students at Tarkington Hall, one of the threatened buildings, the rash of threats there came to a temporary end. One wonders though, whether this was the result of the sleuthing by the University Police or the cash reward pooled by the residents.

Amsterdam, Paris, Hamburg, Berne, Munich and Bonn . . . just some of the European cities that members of the GLEE CLUB will have the opportunity to visit this summer. As representative of a school that does not even have a music department, the PURDUE GLEE CLUB is respected throughout the country and world as an accomplished singing group; as director Al Stewart is referred to as the "Knute Rockne of the collegiate glee club world."

As a group of twenty-four singing coeds, the PURDUETTES contribute greatly to the traditions and aims of the Purdue Musical Organizations. Under the direction of Bruce G. MacGuire, a former soloist for the Purdue Glee Club, these singing women collegians win the hearts of any audience.

University Choir

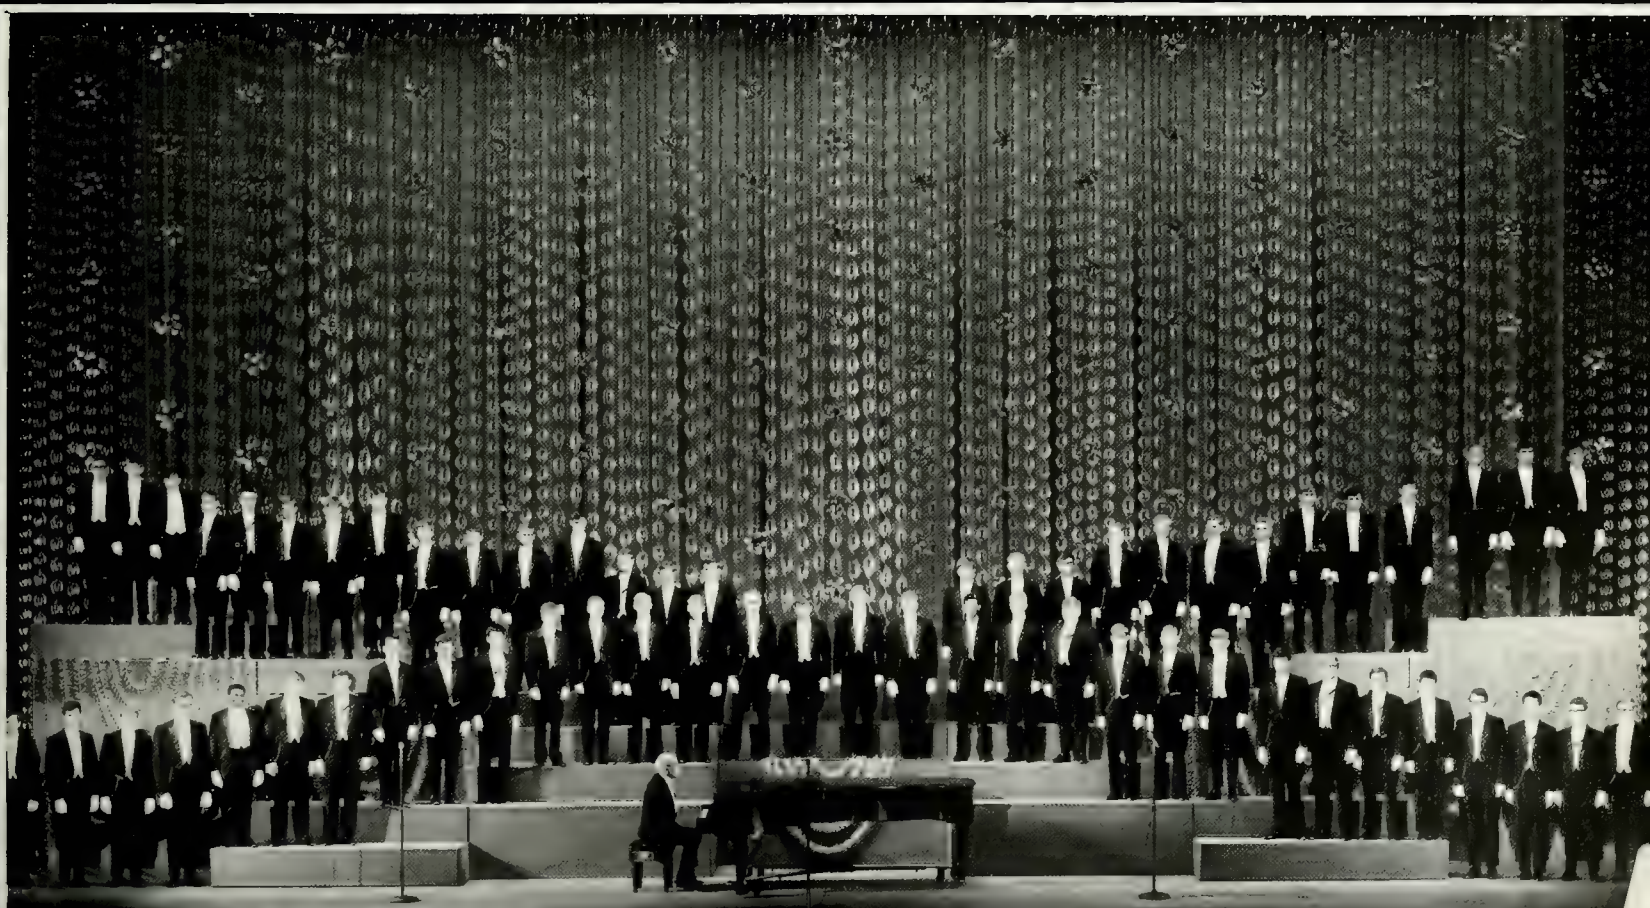

About 400 students find recreation at 4:30 in the afternoon singing for the PURDUE UNIVERSITY CHOIR. Directed by Mr. Bill Allen, the students are pitched to a high note of fun and accomplishment, and the opportunity to meet a great number of fellow students.

Conducting the choir in a practice session, Bill Allen illustrates a high note.

CO-OPS

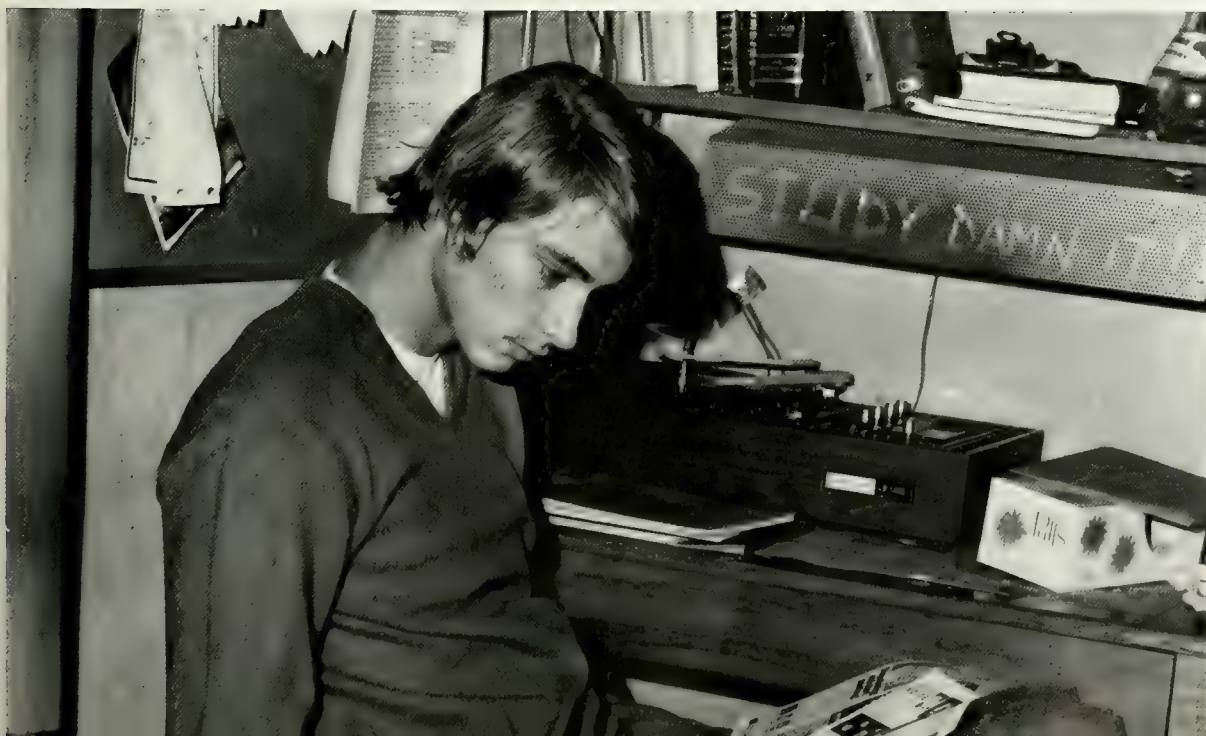

FOWLER COURTS

Whether out of choice or out of forced living conditions, many "close" friendships may be found among Fowler Court residents. Unlike the large dorm units, it is actually possible to know all the people living under the same roof! Fowler House brings all units together for dining, party planning and special programs. Here, Fowler Courts also houses its own radio station with both male and female broadcasters.

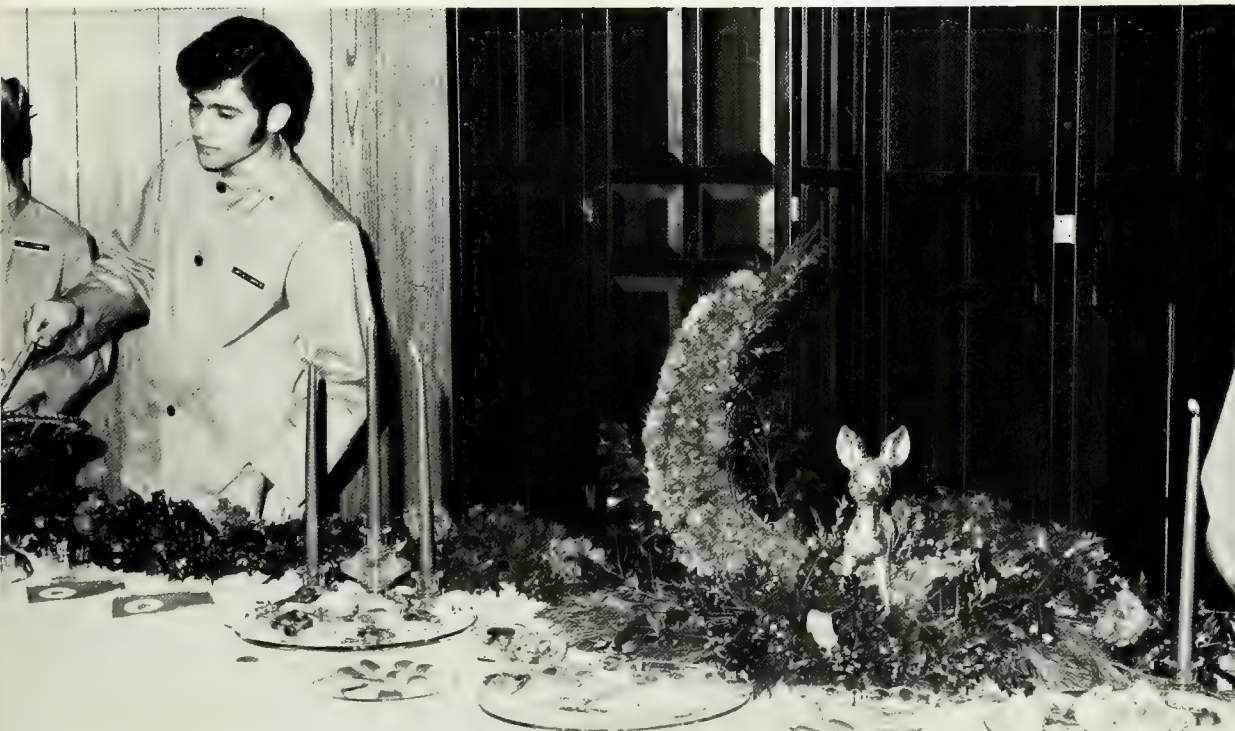

SHREVE

Fantastic! . . . seems to be the unanimous reaction to Shreve Hall, Purdue's first dorm actually designed with both sexes in mind. Shreve is a new dorm with unique ideas. Shreve's "scramble system" is a special set-up to avoid long lines at dinner. Shreve also boasts being the only dorm to have its co-ed lounge open after hours. Each co-ed unit planned and gave its own parties throughout the year. Themes ranged from the traditional hayrides and pumpkin carving contests to contemporary pizza fests and even p.j. parties in the dining room!

ALPHA PHI OMEGA

ALPHA PHI OMEGA, national service fraternity, performs services for the campus, community, nation, and chapter. These services include helping with the local Boy Scout office, campus elections, campus tours, bulletin boards, and the Home Hospital Fair. The boys also assist officials at track meets. The UMOC (Ugliest Man on Campus) dance is held annually to raise money for the Campus Chest. This year a testimonial banquet was held for Professor Luzadder, a long time faculty sponsor of Alpha Phi Omega.

GREEN GUARD

GREEN GUARD is the organization responsible for welcoming freshman women to campus. Green Guard counselors contact the freshman during the summer; a "gab fest" and a fashion show are held in the fall to acquaint them with the opportunities and people at Purdue. A newly designed program for the latest pledge class has been the major concern of the honorary in the hopes of making the organization even more relevant.

WINTER WAS LATE

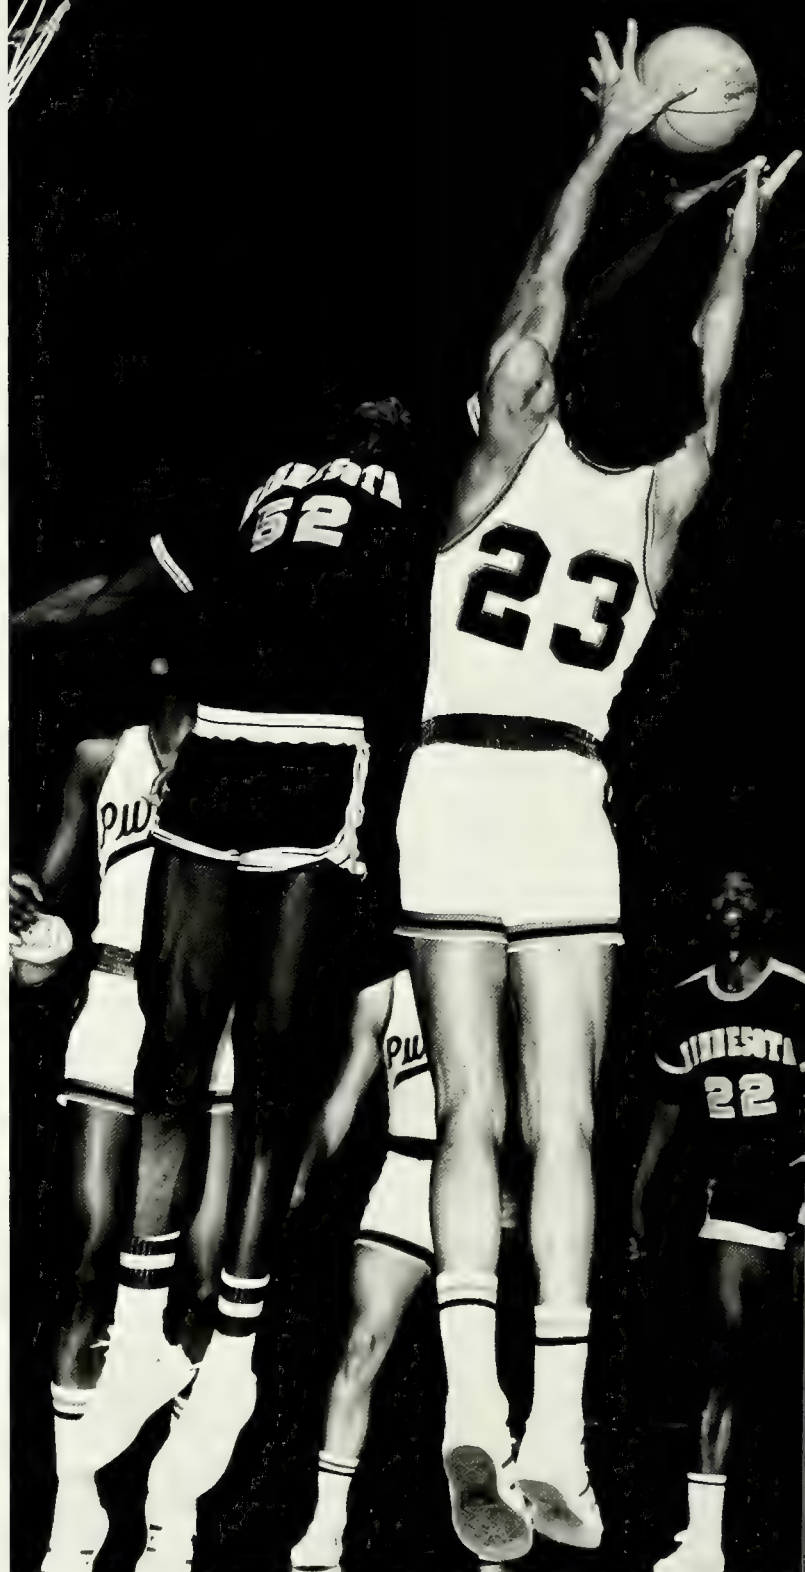

BUT

BASKETBALL

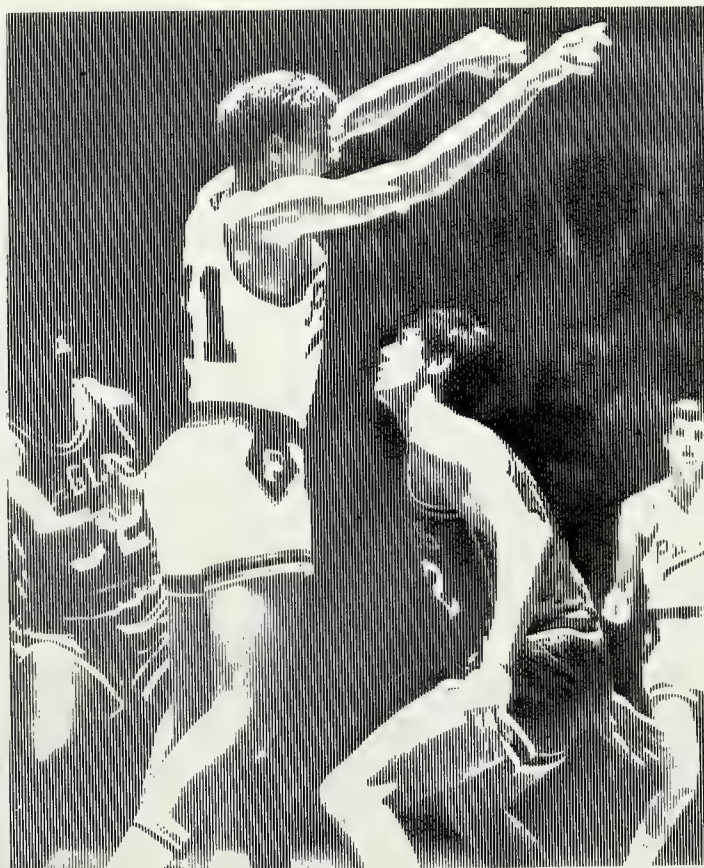

1970

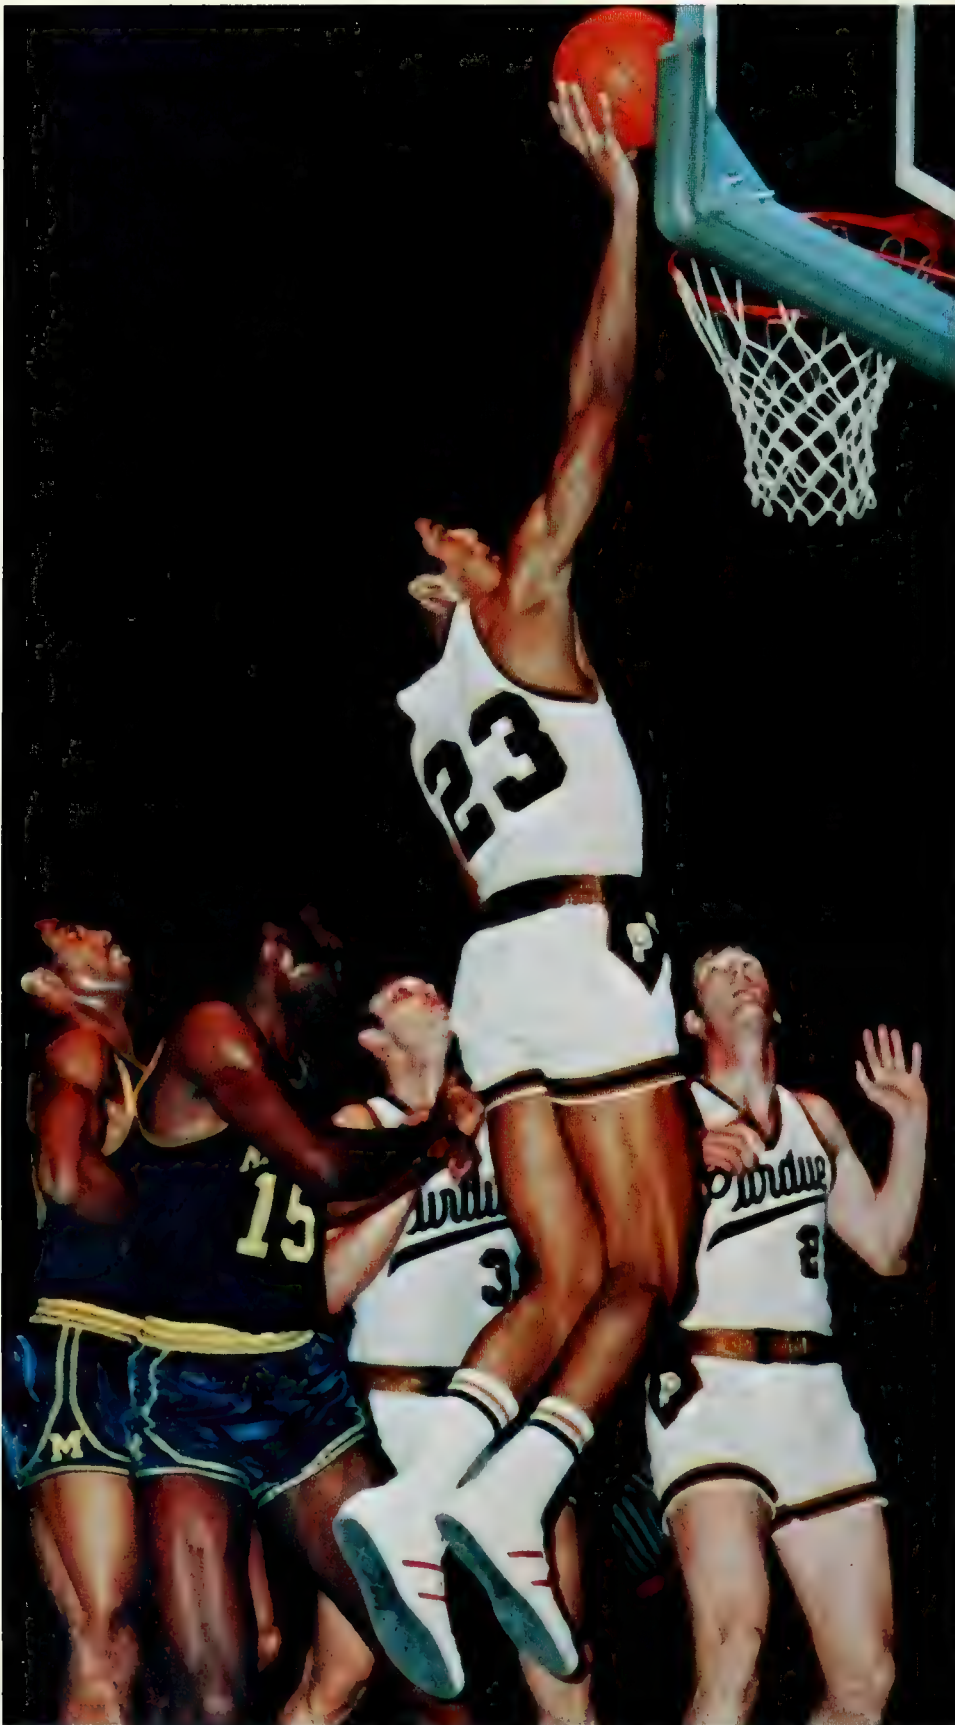

Purdue opened the season this year minus superstar Rick Mount, and many wondered whether Coach King could put together another winner. Nine lettermen returned, including starters George Faerber, Bob Ford, and Larry Weatherford. During preseason workouts, King's style of basketball came to the surface: fast breaks, rugged defense, and tough front line play.

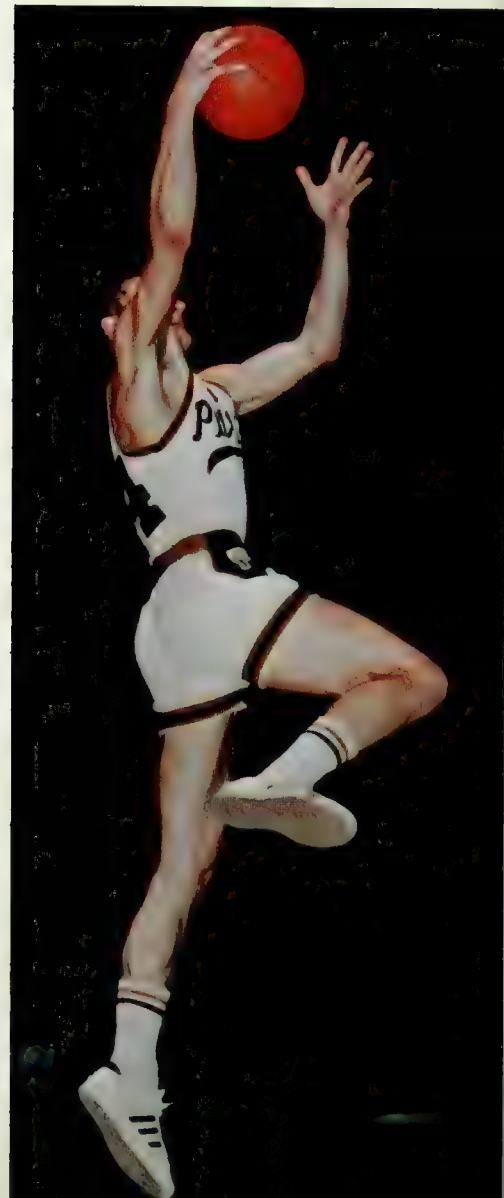

Ford, Faerber, Weatherford, and William Franklin quickly emerged as the four top starters, while several others vied for the fifth spot. Steve Longfellow was the team's third guard last year, but an injury this fall left him on the bench. Sophomore Denny Gamauf got the nod as fifth starter during the early season, maturing rapidly with each game. Bill Kroc and Rick Risinger also saw action at guard, while Jovon Price and Jim Rogers filled in under the boards.

Larry Weatherford led the team in assists . . .

. . . and in scoring.

As the Boilers opened the season it looked like a tight race. Preseason polls gave Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio State, and Purdue an even chance to win the Big Ten title. While Purdue's depth and muscle made them prime contenders, Indiana State, Tulsa, and Kent State all put together 2-point victories over the Riveters, leaving them with a 3-3 record going into the Kentucky Invitational Tourney.

Reserve forward Jim Rogers

The Boilermakers finally began to put their game together in UK's Memorial Coliseum and rolled over Kansas State, 87-68. The next night mighty Kentucky was stalled as Purdue played scrappy defense and stopped UK's fast break. Franklin battled Kentucky's giant center, 7'2½" Tom Payne, to a standstill. Larry Weatherford had 27 points, and was named the tournament's most valuable player.

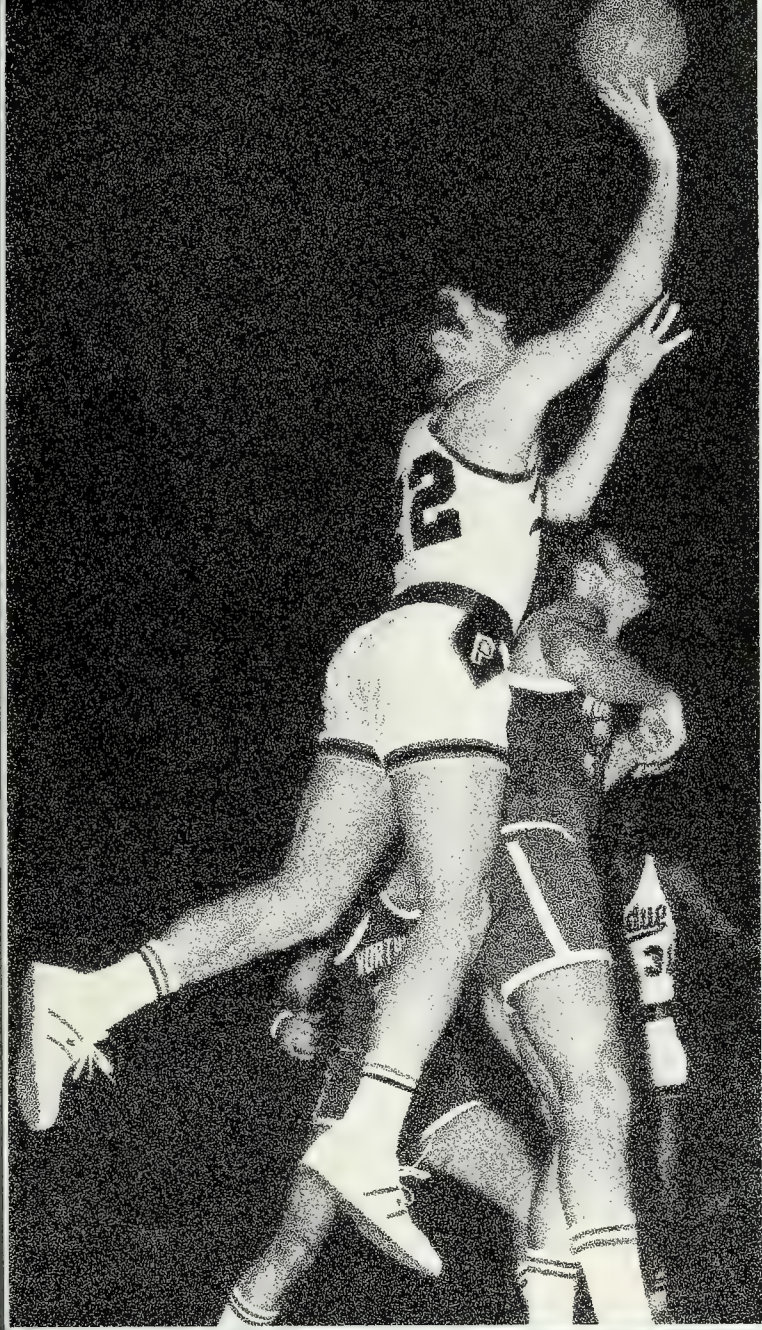

Returning home, Purdue trounced Tulane, 94-73. The entire squad saw action as the Boilers boosted their record to 6-3. The tournament victory shot the Boilers into the top 20 for the first time, and Coach King readied his team for the Big Ten opener with Minnesota.

The F-Troop

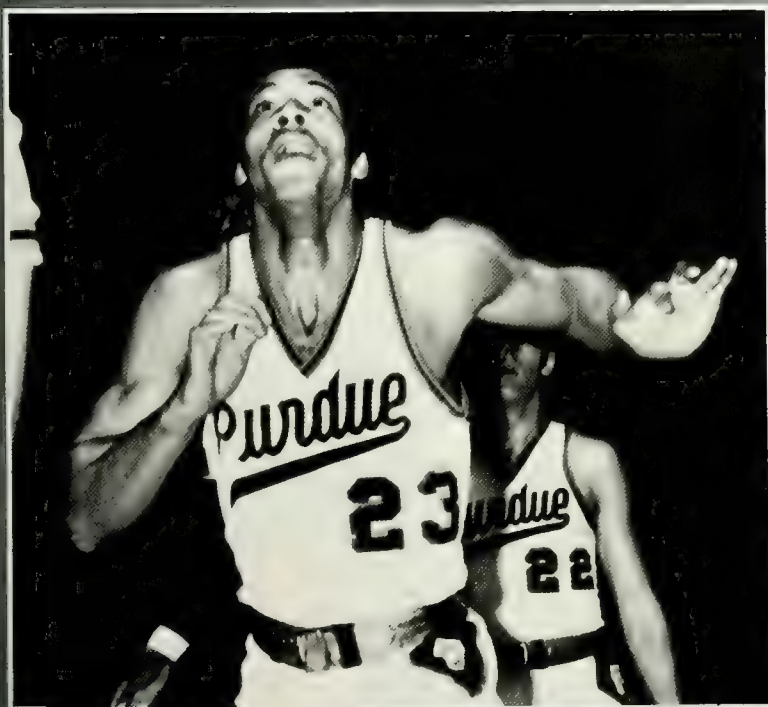

Purdue's front line was rated among the best in Big Ten. Dubbed the "F-Troop" by sportswriters in preseason columns, George Faerber, Bob Ford, and William Franklin terrorized opponents all year long.

Combining muscle with quickness and good shooting, the big three complemented each other. On the defensive boards, the Boilers were able to take the ball down quickly, and set up Coach King's patented fast break. On offense, each was a potent scoring threat — each led in scoring at one time or another.

George Faerber was senior co-captain, and a three-year starter. He set conference field goal percentage records, and was third in rebounding for the Boilers. He was frequently assigned the job of guarding the opponent's top scorer, and responded every time. Faerber was a three-time Big Ten All-Academic selection. Bob Ford, a junior, was credited in sparking the final seven-game winning streak at the end of the season. He was the squad's second-leading scorer, and was sixth in league scoring with 22.0 ppg. Ford tallied 36 points and 20 rebounds against Minnesota, and was named to the All-Tourney team at the Kentucky Invitational. Another junior, William Franklin, was the third member of the "F-Troop." Overcoming his sophomore weaknesses, the muscular rebounder led the team on the boards. At Champaign he scored 26 points to destroy Illini with an 11 of 14 shooting display.

Boilers Place Third

In their Big Ten opener, Purdue spotted Minnesota a 37-32 halftime advantage, but struggled back to win, 83-76. The following week Northwestern extended the Gold and Black in the Arena, playing a pesky zone defense. But after the wildcats pulled to within one point, Gamauf calmly sank six straight free throws in the last 55 seconds to ice the victory. Purdue followed with a 97-92 overtime decision over Minnesota for a hard-earned 3-0 conference slate and a two-week layoff. Coming back after semester break the Purdues saw their seven-game winning streak snapped by Michigan at Ann Arbor, 85-69. The offense was punchless and the team lacked sharpness. Michigan continued to set the pace in the Big Ten with a 6-0 conference record.

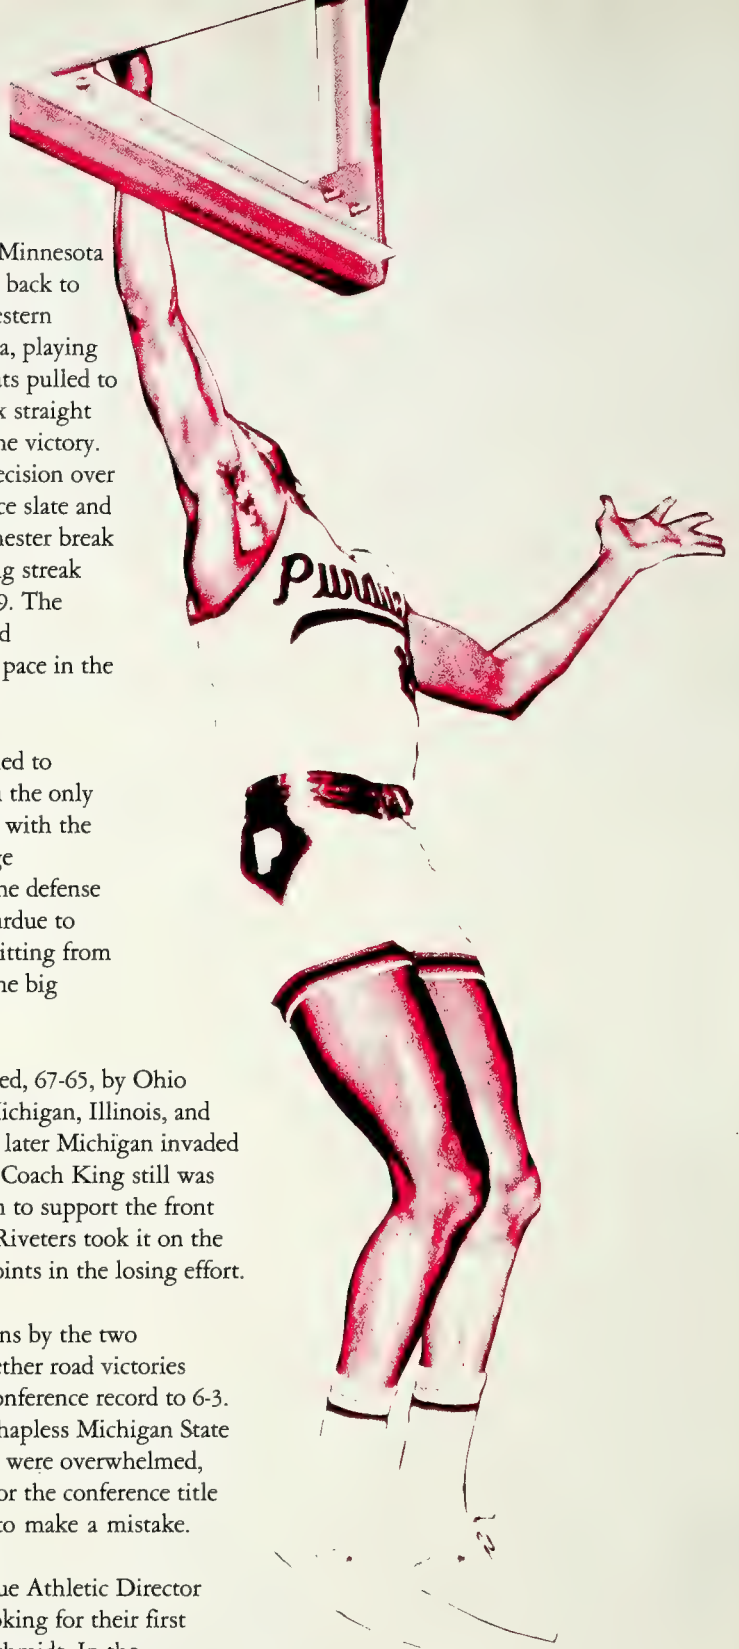

The following Saturday the Boilers traveled to Bloomington to do battle with Indiana in the only season meeting for the two squads. Faced with the awesome task of stopping IU's big George McGinnis, Coach King installed a 3-2 zone defense that worried the Hoosiers and enabled Purdue to win, 85-81. Weatherford had 28 points, hitting from all over the floor in boosting Purdue to the big victory.

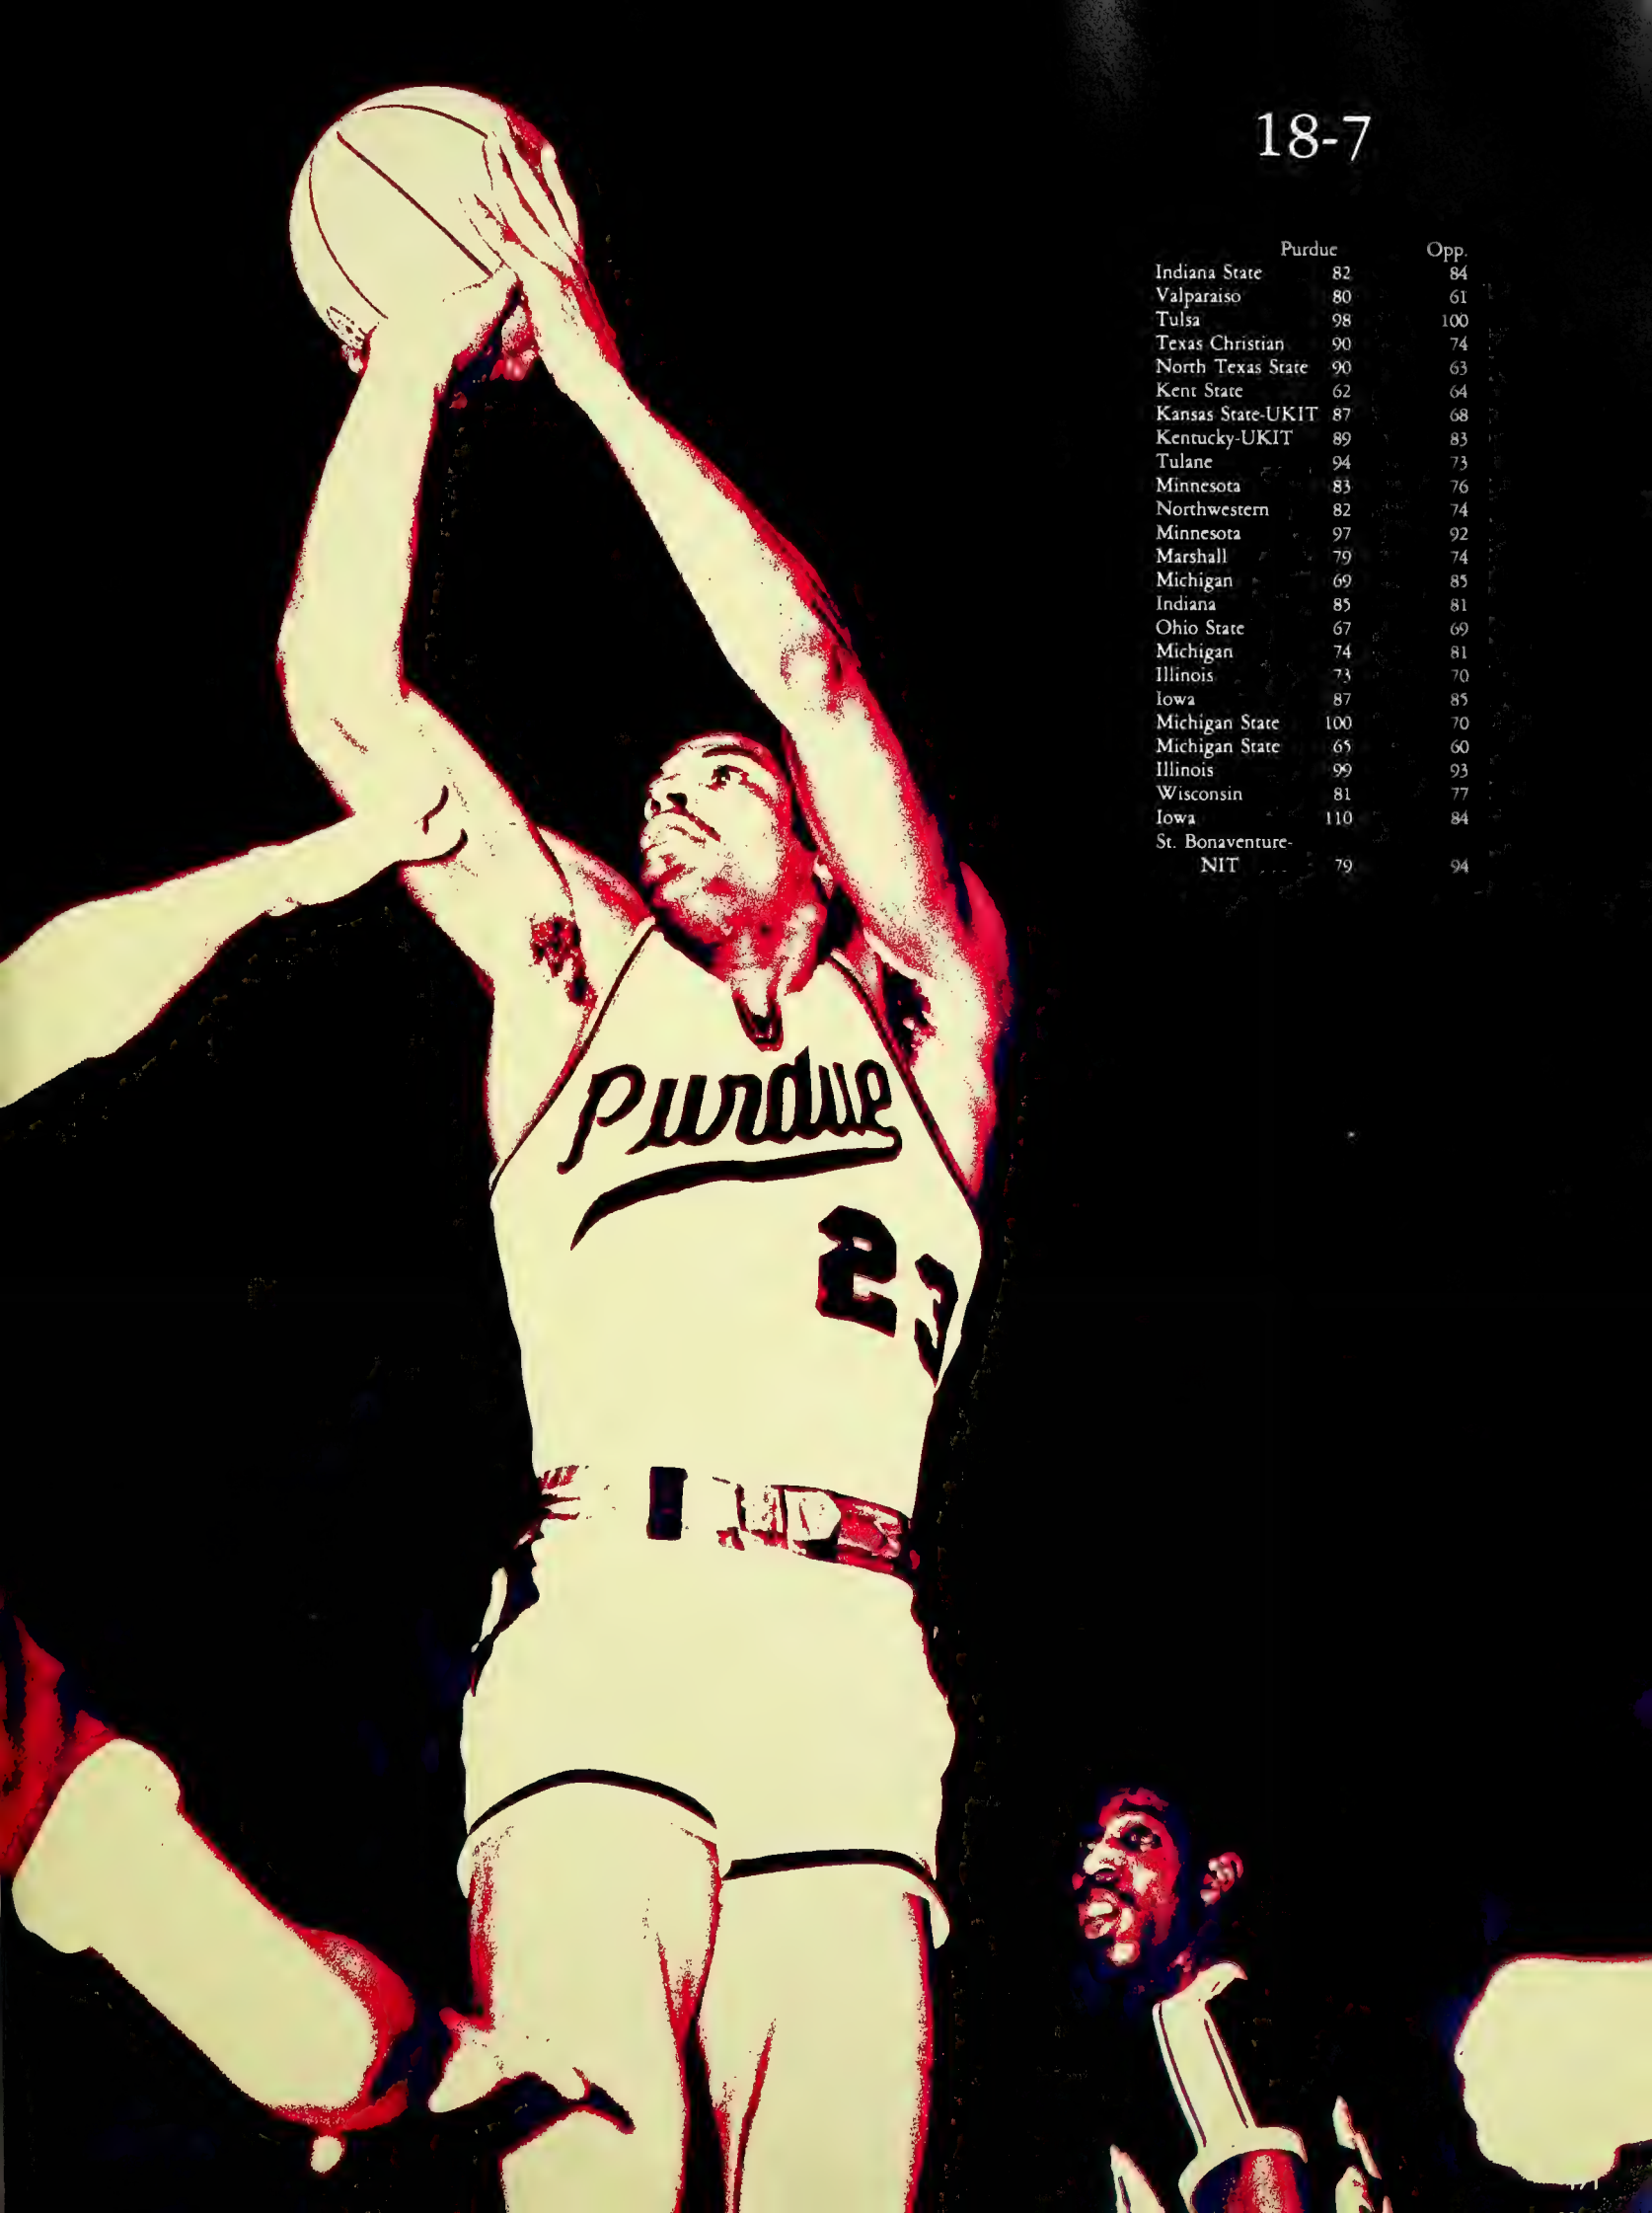

Coming back home, the Boilers were jolted, 67-65, by Ohio State. The loss set Purdue back behind Michigan, Illinois, and OSU in the Big Ten standings. Five days later Michigan invaded the Purdue Arena for their return match. Coach King still was searching for the right guard combination to support the front line, and again Michigan prevailed. The Riveters took it on the chin, 81-75, although Bob Ford had 25 points in the losing effort.

All but eliminated from title considerations by the two consecutive home losses, Purdue put together road victories against Illinois and Iowa to boost their conference record to 6-3. Then, playing on Saturday and Tuesday, hapless Michigan State ran into the Boilermaker-buzzsaw as they were overwhelmed, 100-70 and 65-60. The only chance now for the conference title and the NCAA bid was for Ohio State to make a mistake.

Mackey Arena, named after the late Purdue Athletic Director Guy "Red" Mackey, hosted the Illini, looking for their first victory over Purdue under Coach Harv Schmidt. In the foul-filled contest Weatherford led the way with 27 points to defeat Illinois, 99-93.

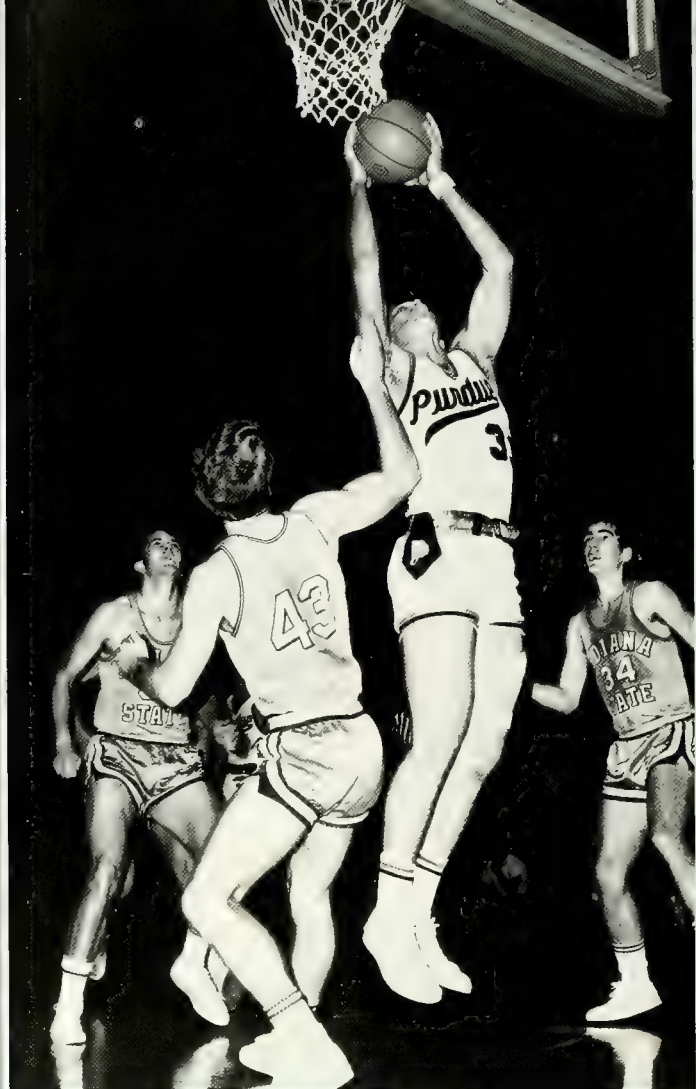

Meanwhile, Ohio State had clinched the Big Ten title and the bid to the NCAA post-season tourney. Purdue still nurtured hopes for a second-place tie and a bid to the NIT. In the final two games, the Riveters handled Wisconsin, 81-77, and demolished Iowa, 110-84, to finish the season with an 18-6 record overall and a seven-game winning streak.

The Boilermakers finished the season on a strong note, winning their last seven in a row, and finished third in the conference behind NCAA-bound Ohio State and NIT-bound Michigan. The NIT extended a second bid to the Big Ten through Purdue, who drew St. Bonaventure in the first round at Madison Square Garden. The Bonnies gave away more than an inch per-man, but still managed to outrebound the Boilers, 64-47.

Taking a slim lead at halftime, the Indians extended it to 18 points in the first few minutes of the second half. Purdue was forced to play catch-up ball for the rest of the game and never came closer than 13 points, finally losing, 94-79. Larry Weatherford and Bob Ford scored 21 points apiece, and George Faerber added 13.

The sports world was indeed saddened by the death of Purdue's Red Mackey, Dean of Big Ten Athletic Directors. His loss was felt not only by the athletic department, but throughout the University. Accordingly, the Board of Trustees voted to name the Purdue arena "Mackey Arena" in his honor. Head Basketball Coach George King was named to succeed Mr. Mackey as Purdue's seventh athletic director.

New Athletic Director, George King

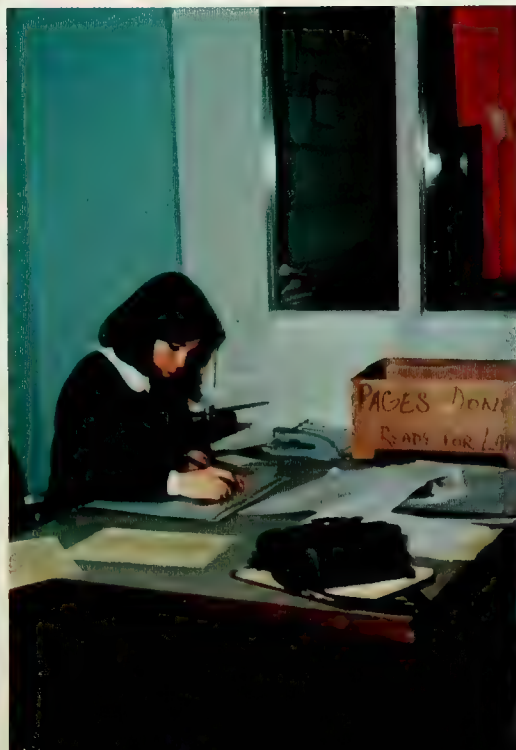

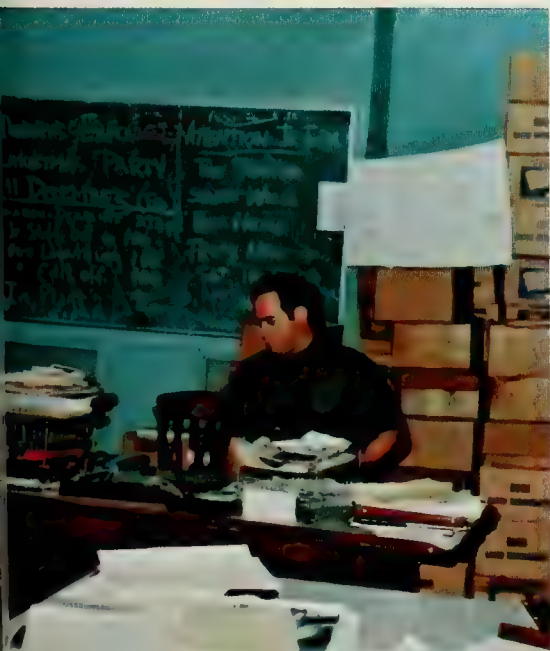

Baby Boilers Post 10-2

Coach Dave Toney's freshman squad again posted an excellent record, winning 10 of 12 games. The team showed excellent balance with four players averaging 15 points or better. Tom Gilbert led with 18.0 ppg, followed by Randy Shields, Bruce Rose and David Luke. Shields was especially effective on the boards, shattering George Faerber's Mackey Arena record of 21 caroms by collecting 26 against the Butler freshmen. Pivotman Bruce Rose had an outstanding field goal percentage of .595. The team ended its season with a flashy 106-80 win over St. Joseph's. Coach Toney was especially pleased with the improvement of Gilbert and Luke, confident that they both will be heard from in the 1971-72 varsity camp.

Debris

A literary, artistic, and photographic effort? Or is it an office where people congregate to be with other people and run around complaining about Neblett and sales, photo assignments and impossible copy to make it all look businesslike. Probably a little bit of both. After all, who can take himself seriously when he's looking at ten blank layout sheets or seven simultaneous photo assignments to be taken with three cameras or a campus that, when it orders books, forgets to pay for them or pick them up so that the office is wallpapered with boxes stamped 1969 books? We can't and we don't, and B-2, PMC resounds with

"We've learned from our past. The last two years have been very difficult ones for us. Smoot's year especially made Exponent more politically aware. Now I think that we can combine the best of our two worlds and get back to being more of a newspaper, meaningful to the academic community."

Stephanie J. Slater
Editor-in-chief

The Exponent has weathered the storm of the first two years of incorporation. An editor was suspended, a column was censored and on two separate occasions the Exponent did not officially exist.

The result of two years of incessant haggling is a student newspaper which some feel has, in a sense, "sold out." But the deletion of two words from the paper's vocabulary and an agreement to print no "calls to violence" seemed to the staff to be a small price to pay in comparison with the cost to the campus of not printing at all.

The Exponent is still here, admitting its mistakes and trying to correct them. A professional advisor, Bob Kriebel, has been hired to help the staff in journalistic matters. In eight more years, the Exponent will be completely autonomous, freed from its economic ties to the university.

Until then, the Exponent faces the challenge of being a relevant and responsible student newspaper while walking a political tightrope with the university that still owns the equipment necessary to put out a paper.

STUDENT BODY PRESIDENT

Stanley G. Jones, Student Body President
April to October

Stan Jones ran for Student Body President to help "effective student power to become a reality." His running mate, Alan Beecher, wanted to make Student Government "a bold, dynamic, and active group." On April 16, 1970, they were elected by three-quarters of one of the largest campus voter turnouts in recent years. Stanley Jones took over the reins of what many considered a dead horse and for a spring turned it into an active, restless, and viable organization. He was a leader through the V² boycott controversy and through the spring Cambodia demonstrations. During the aftermath of Kent State, Jones participated in a forum along with several other students and administrators. "It's time to cool it with the rhetoric and be heavy with the action," he demanded, and over 1000 students who had crowded the Union Ballroom responded with a standing ovation.

But no action was forthcoming . . . except the action of the following autumn: Jones' forced resignation. For in his desire to lead Student Government, he had sacrificed his grades and doomed Student Government to the task of defending or cutting off their leader. After two months of arguing, bickering, and maneuvering on the part of Stan, Student Senate, Faculty Senate and the Administration, Jones resigned on October 29th. He said, "I guess I don't want to be arbitrary any more. I find myself unable to complete the duties and responsibilities of my office." Amid the rumors of a possible dissolving of the present Student Government, Al Beecher took over as President. For over a month it was unclear whether Al was running the show or whether Stan still controlled the reins.

On November 18th, Purdue students finally knew they had a President, and they knew who he was. "Alan Beecher is President of the Student Body," he said. "And until I am impeached, resign, or die . . . or graduate, I will remain President of the Student Body." However, Al also pleaded and admitted, "I don't know who to lead, where to lead, or how to lead."

Stan Jones, Alan Beecher — Student Body President . . . Student Government's leader, the students' leader. One asked for a mile in hopes of gaining an inch, and the other wasn't sure if he even wanted to ask for the inch.

Student Union — so much more than the building. As it usually is, people behind the name are responsible for what is accomplished. In this case it is twenty-five student officers whose role, as designated in the Constitution of the Purdue Memorial Union, is to assist the administrative staff in the fulfillment of the purposes of the Union — "to stimulate and coordinate activities and conferences valuable to Purdue." The Student Union Board accomplishes this through programming designed to meet current social, cultural, recreational, and educational needs of students and by assuming a function of cooperative management with the administrative staff.

The philosophy in programming is that it must be current enough to keep pace with student needs. In recent years the trend has been toward concentration on small programs to meet specific needs and interests. This year has seen the birth of V receptions, and the rebirth of "Emphasis," Campus Sounds, and Wallbangers. In evaluating its programs, Student Union looks at programming by all student groups and official organizations of the University and attempts to fill the gaps both in types of programs planned and in their timing.

THE GREEK

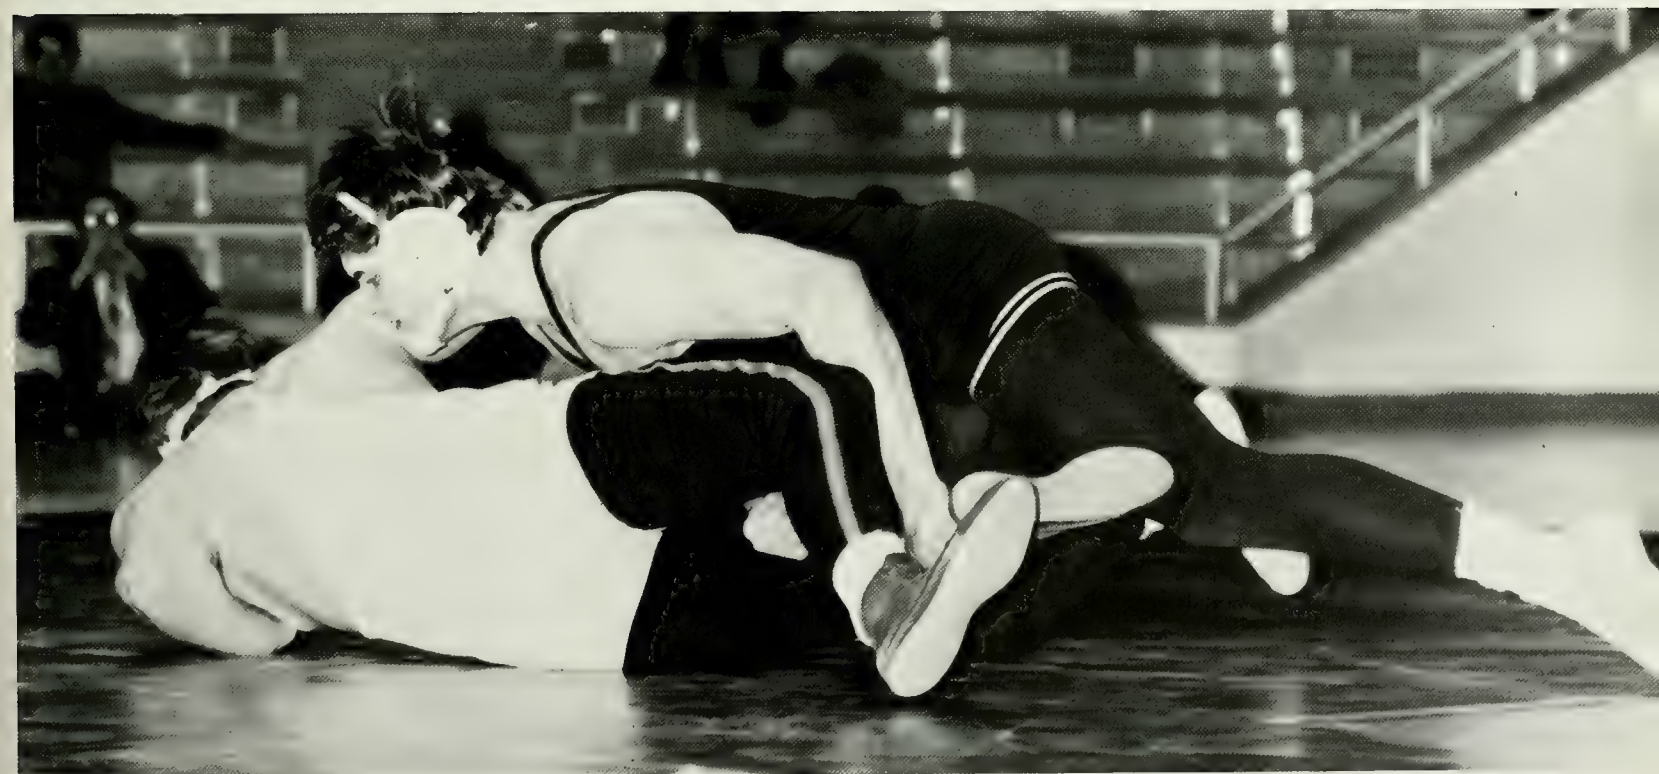

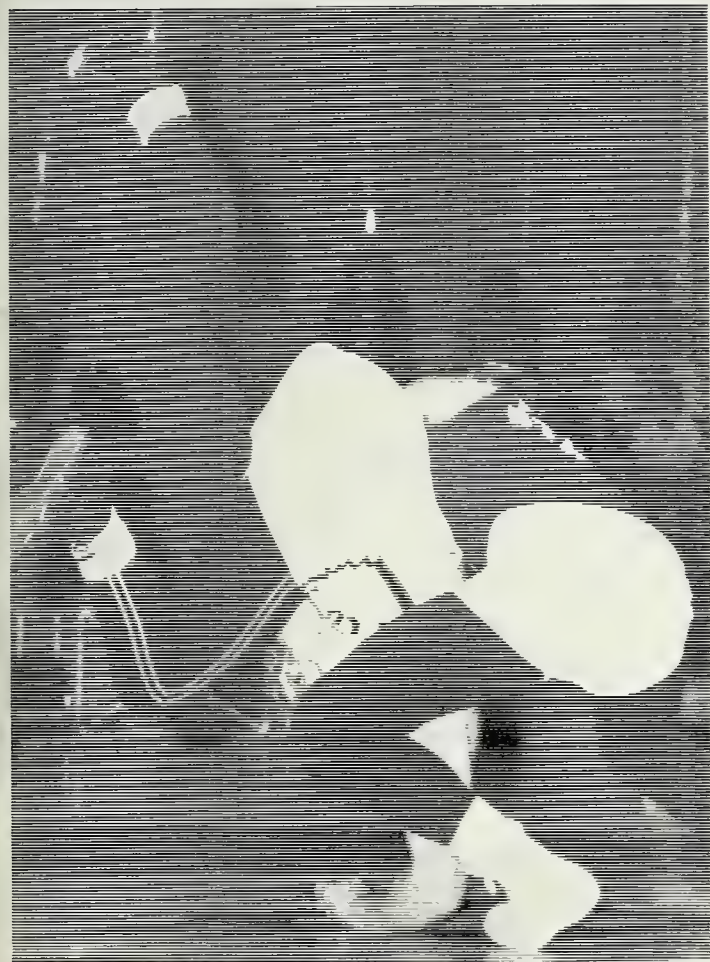

Wrestling

The Purdue wrestlers opened the 70-71 season with successive wins over Notre Dame and Indiana. The grapplers showed Coach Don Corrigan good balance in their attack by winning three of the first four matches.

As the season progressed, the squad's success depended upon the performances of several individuals. Ron Howard (118), a freshman, was effective in the early season, and will be a cornerstone for future years. Bill Andrew (126) was Purdue's only major wrestler to go undefeated on the season, posting an excellent 7-0 record. In the 150-lb. class, Gary Drury showed finesse on the mat and strength in the points column, with a 12-2 personal tally. Brad Havig drew praise in the 158-lb. class, finishing 12-7 for the season.

The Big Ten's best wrestlers assembled in Mackey Arena this year for the conference championships. Purdue improved last year's standings by two places by placing seventh while defending champion Michigan State took its sixth consecutive title.

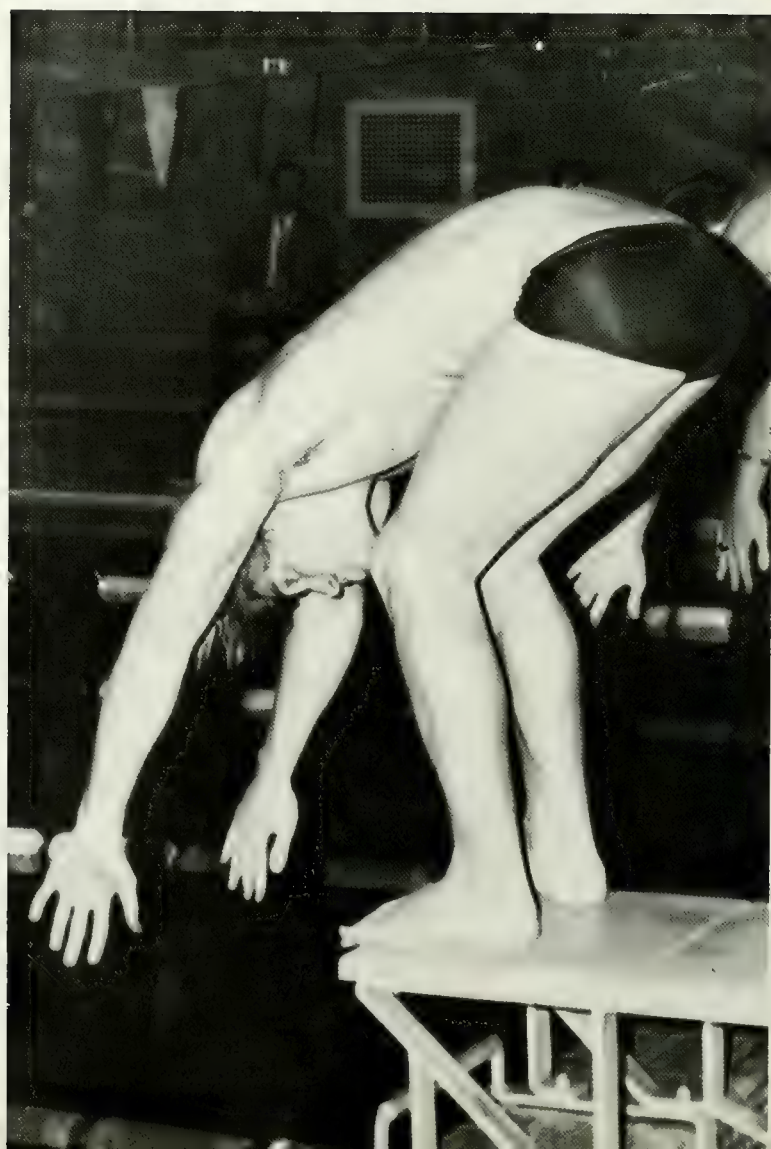

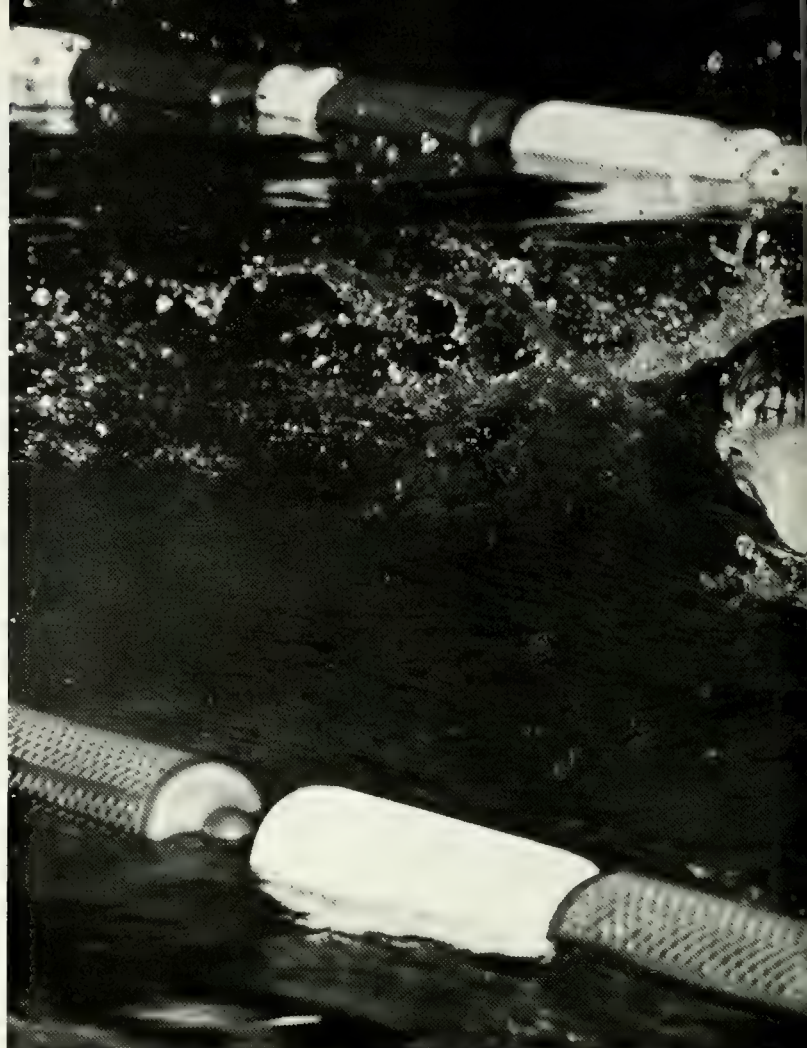

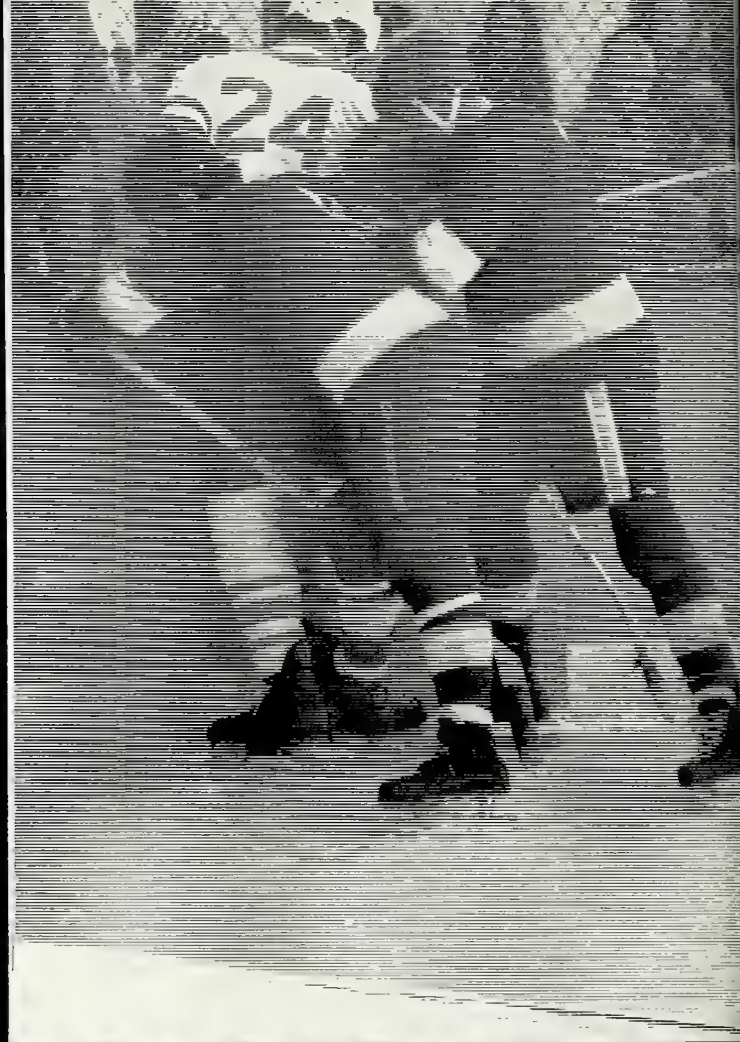

Swimming

For the first time in many years the swimming team recorded a winning season. Operating from an expanded schedule, first-year coach Fred Kahm's squad swam against non-conference opponents as well as Big Ten teams. Brent Virts and Mark Wraight were the most effective for the season; Virts set three varsity records, and Wraight set two. Junior Steve Stasukaitis set the pace against Illinois and OSU in the sprint freestyles.

Particularly outstanding were the performances of several freshmen, especially Jeff Clark. Coach Kahm took with him to the Big Ten Championships only 4 seniors, and 11 underclassmen. National Champion Indiana took 1st place with over 600 points, while the Boilermakers placed eighth.

The face-off!

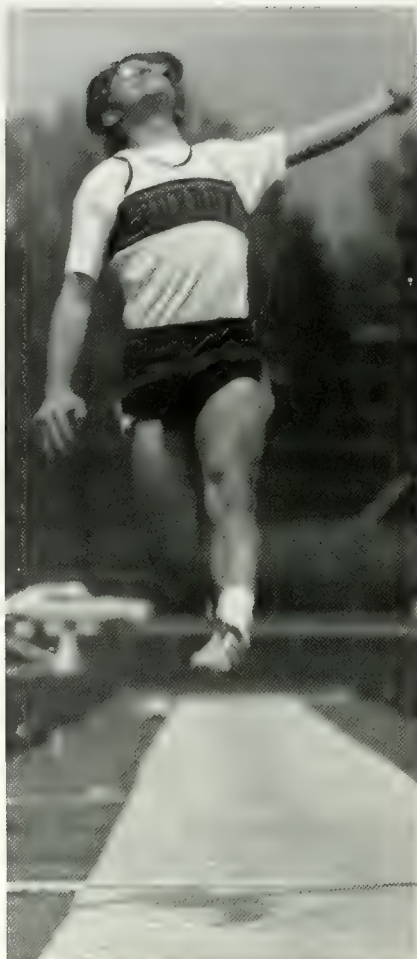

Hockey

The hockey club returned to the ice this year with a more experienced and well-balanced squad than has been seen at Purdue in the past. Coach John Scully worked the skaters hard in the pre-season, emphasizing teamwork, in preparation for a tough 24-game schedule. An advantage was gained in moving the Purdue home contests to the Gordie Howe Ice Dome in Indianapolis, which gave the Boilers consistently good ice conditions. The critical goalie spot was filled by freshman Jeff Boyle, who showed quick, aggressive play. The scrambling tactics of Bob Weidenmiller enabled him to lead the squad in scoring, while Darrell LaBlanc added speed and experience. Pete Fisher led the defense with an outstanding sense of hockey play and depth with the addition of Bill Peters and Bob Damon.

Although occasionally hampered by warm weather, the hard practice schedule paid off by giving Purdue its most successful hockey season.

IF I AM INTERESTED,
I MUST TRANSCEND MY EGO,
BE OPEN TO THE WORLD,
AND JUMP INTO IT.

ERICH FROMM, REVOLUTION OF HOPE

So much is happening today.
Every time I turn around,
there's something else to do,
to worry about
Why must everything be so complicated?

The challenges,
The problems,
The endless lists of goals, of accomplishments,
The pressures,
I hate them all.

Can't I just go my own way?
To do the things I want to do,
To lead the life I want to live?
Why must everyone else's worries worry me too?

Please just give me my own work,
my own play.
That's all I want.
I think . . .

I want to be alone,
I need time to think.

I'm so afraid . . .

I feel trapped,
I can sense the pressures building up around me.
Take care of this,
Take care of that.
I just can't do it.
What can I do about a whole world of problems?

I tried once,
I really did.
I felt so insignificant,
So many other people,
So many words,
 words I can't even pronounce much less understand.

I just wanted to be myself.
I wanted my own activities, my own friends.

It didn't work though.
I felt lonely.
I lost my compassion,
I lost my humanity,
I lost my sense of affiliation.

Now, nothing is left.
I can only hide behind the "me" that I have built.
I cannot touch my friends,
 they cannot touch me.

I am so lonely . . .

It's been awhile but,
I finally feel happy again.
It's been a struggle to get this way,
I'm glad I put forth the effort.

Earlier, I found that I simply could not talk to my friends.
By putting myself away from everyone,
Off in my own little corner of the world,
I lost touch.
With everyone, with myself.
I thought I knew what I wanted.
Oh well . . . I've been wrong before.

I realize that isolation is never an answer.
People must relate to each other
if they want to be productive to feel fulfilled.

That empty feeling that creeps over me when I am alone
used to scare me.
Now that thought is the farthest thing from my mind.
I'm just too busy, too involved, too happy,
to entertain its gloom.

When I am happy, I feel complete.
I feel that I am doing something,
It doesn't even matter how insignificant it might actually be.

My friends help me a lot,
and I help them

Isn't that the way it's supposed to be?

McCUTCHEON: CHRISTMAS IS KID STUFF

The wise-guys tell me that Christmas is Kid Stuff . . . Maybe they've got something there — Two thousand years ago three wise guys chased a star across a continent to bring frankincense and myrrh to a Kid born in a manger. This year the men of McCutcheon tried to get back some of that Kid Stuff by bringing a little Christmas into the lives of a group of underprivileged kids. The Children's Christmas party, the highlight of winter activities at McCutcheon, demonstrated that not all of college is books and beer. There are those who care.

What Do You Say About Living at Owen?

What do you say about living at Owen? That it was noisy? That it meant formals, sign paints, and a Grand Prix entry? Or that it meant all-nighters and euchre games at 2 in the morning? Somehow I don't think I'll remember the activities that made the Purdue Student. They didn't make half the impression on me being thrown in a cold shower did. For my memories of Owen when I leave — as a senior after 4 years, as a freshman bound for fraternity or apartment life — will be of the great moments that come only when people are friends.

Harrison: From Grill to Coffee House

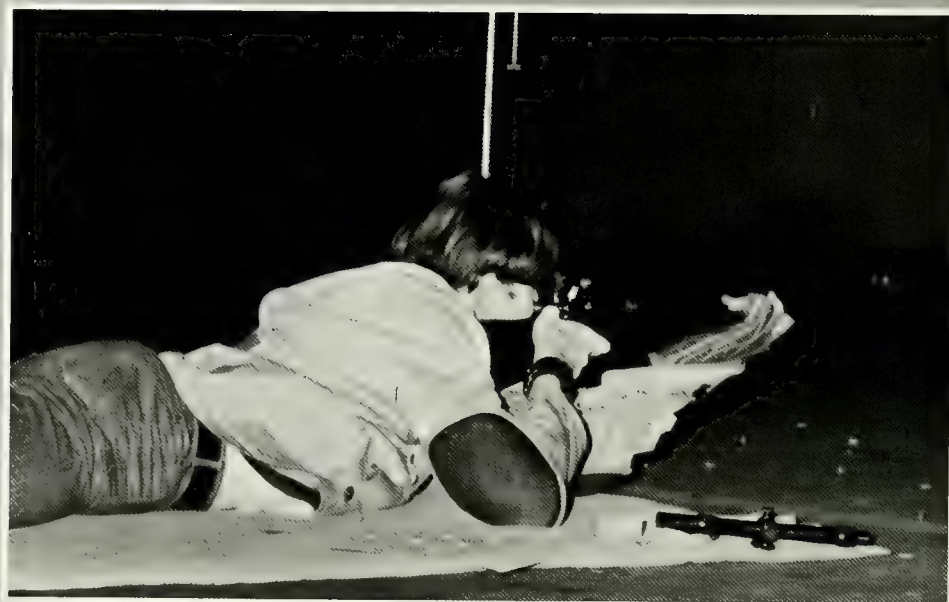

First semester became second and red vinyl booths of the Harrison grille became seats of a coffee house. It was a time to unwind, a time to reflect, and a time to discover Peter, Paul and Mary where dorm residents once were. The informal atmosphere provided only one of the many opportunities Harrison residents had to escape the daily ordeal of quizzes and lab reports. Spring would bring a street dance, an Easter egg hunt, and a picnic, but until the weatherman cooperated coffee houses would keep dormbound Harrison residents happy.

HONOR FLIGHT

Freshman and sophomore AFROTC cadets have an honorary — HONOR FLIGHT. This unique organization is designed to help outstanding Air Force cadets develop more leadership by exposing them to Air Force officers, group learning, and guest speakers. They have the opportunity to formulate their own programs and to visit various Air Force bases. For entertainment the members have an annual post pledging banquet and this year took a canoe trip down the Tippecanoe River.

ARNOLD AIR SOCIETY

The development of officers, the relationships with AFROTC, aerospace power and national security, air and space citizenship — all target areas for the members of ARNOLD AIR SOCIETY in seeking their objective: furthering the purpose, traditions and concepts of the United States Air Force.

Socially, the ARNOLD AIR SOCIETY conducts an annual clothing drive along with planning and conducting the Air Force ball, and rendering services to the AFROTC cadet corps.

ANGEL FLIGHT

Service is really what ANGEL FLIGHT is all about. It is a national women's auxiliary to Air Force ROTC and accomplishes a great deal during a typical school year. They assist at the President's Review and the Military Convocation; distribute awards and usher during Junior Corps Day; annually present a "Salute to the Air Force" for all cadets; participate in a nation-wide drive to collect signatures petitioning for fair treatment of American prisoners of war, along with many other worthwhile projects.

The GRENADAIRES, as a dual function group, acts as both a drill team and an Army ROTC auxiliary. In the former role the team participates in many competitive meets such as the Purdue Invitational, Illinois Invitational, the Queen City Invitational in Cincinnati, and the Cherry Blossom Festival. As a service auxiliary, the GRENADAIRES attend Army ROTC drills and act as University ushers.

QUARTERDECK

QUARTERDECK, the Navy ROTC honorary, this year has sailed flank speed toward their goal: professional development of future Naval officers. By performing various services, and enjoying social and cultural activities including practical leadership seminars, and a midnight hayride and bonfire for members and their guests, the "middies" not only fulfilled this professional objective but also established a bond of friendship within their midshipmen battalion.

ANCHORETTES

As a social auxiliary to the Naval ROTC unit the ANCHORETTES are billeted with helping navigate the channels toward the Navy ball and the annual picnic. But the girls don't restrict themselves to the social aspects. Every Thursday afternoon they practice drill for planned future competitive meets. The reward for their efforts this year is a trip to the Mardi Gras with the Navy drill team — and that's no gedunk!

THE GAME OF PURDUE

The Game of Purdue is the fun game designed especially for Purdue students. It is dull, unexciting, and always predictable. There is only a diploma of questionable value to win, and time and money to lose.

1. Object.

The object of The Game of Purdue is to be the first player to complete a trip around the gameboard and win the diploma.

2. Reasons for play

The reasons for playing this game are varied. Some players are in the game to get an education; some to become proficient in cocktail party conversation. Some players are in search of a husband or wife. Many believe that college will provide the same experience as on-the-job training. Others play the game to avoid the draft.

3. Equipment

The Game of Purdue contains the following: The board, seven players, one token, and a spinner to determine the number of squares to be moved. It is helpful to have:

1. A car
2. ID's

3. A passport

4. An adequate supply of beverage

4. Starting the Game

A. Each player selects a marker and places it on the square marked START.

B. The player spinning the highest number is the first to play. Play proceeds clockwise.

5. Playing the Game

Each time you land on a square, you must follow the printed directions. FREE SQUARES are bonus squares; you may remain there until it is your turn again. There are no time limits on this game except for men whose draft numbers are under 200.

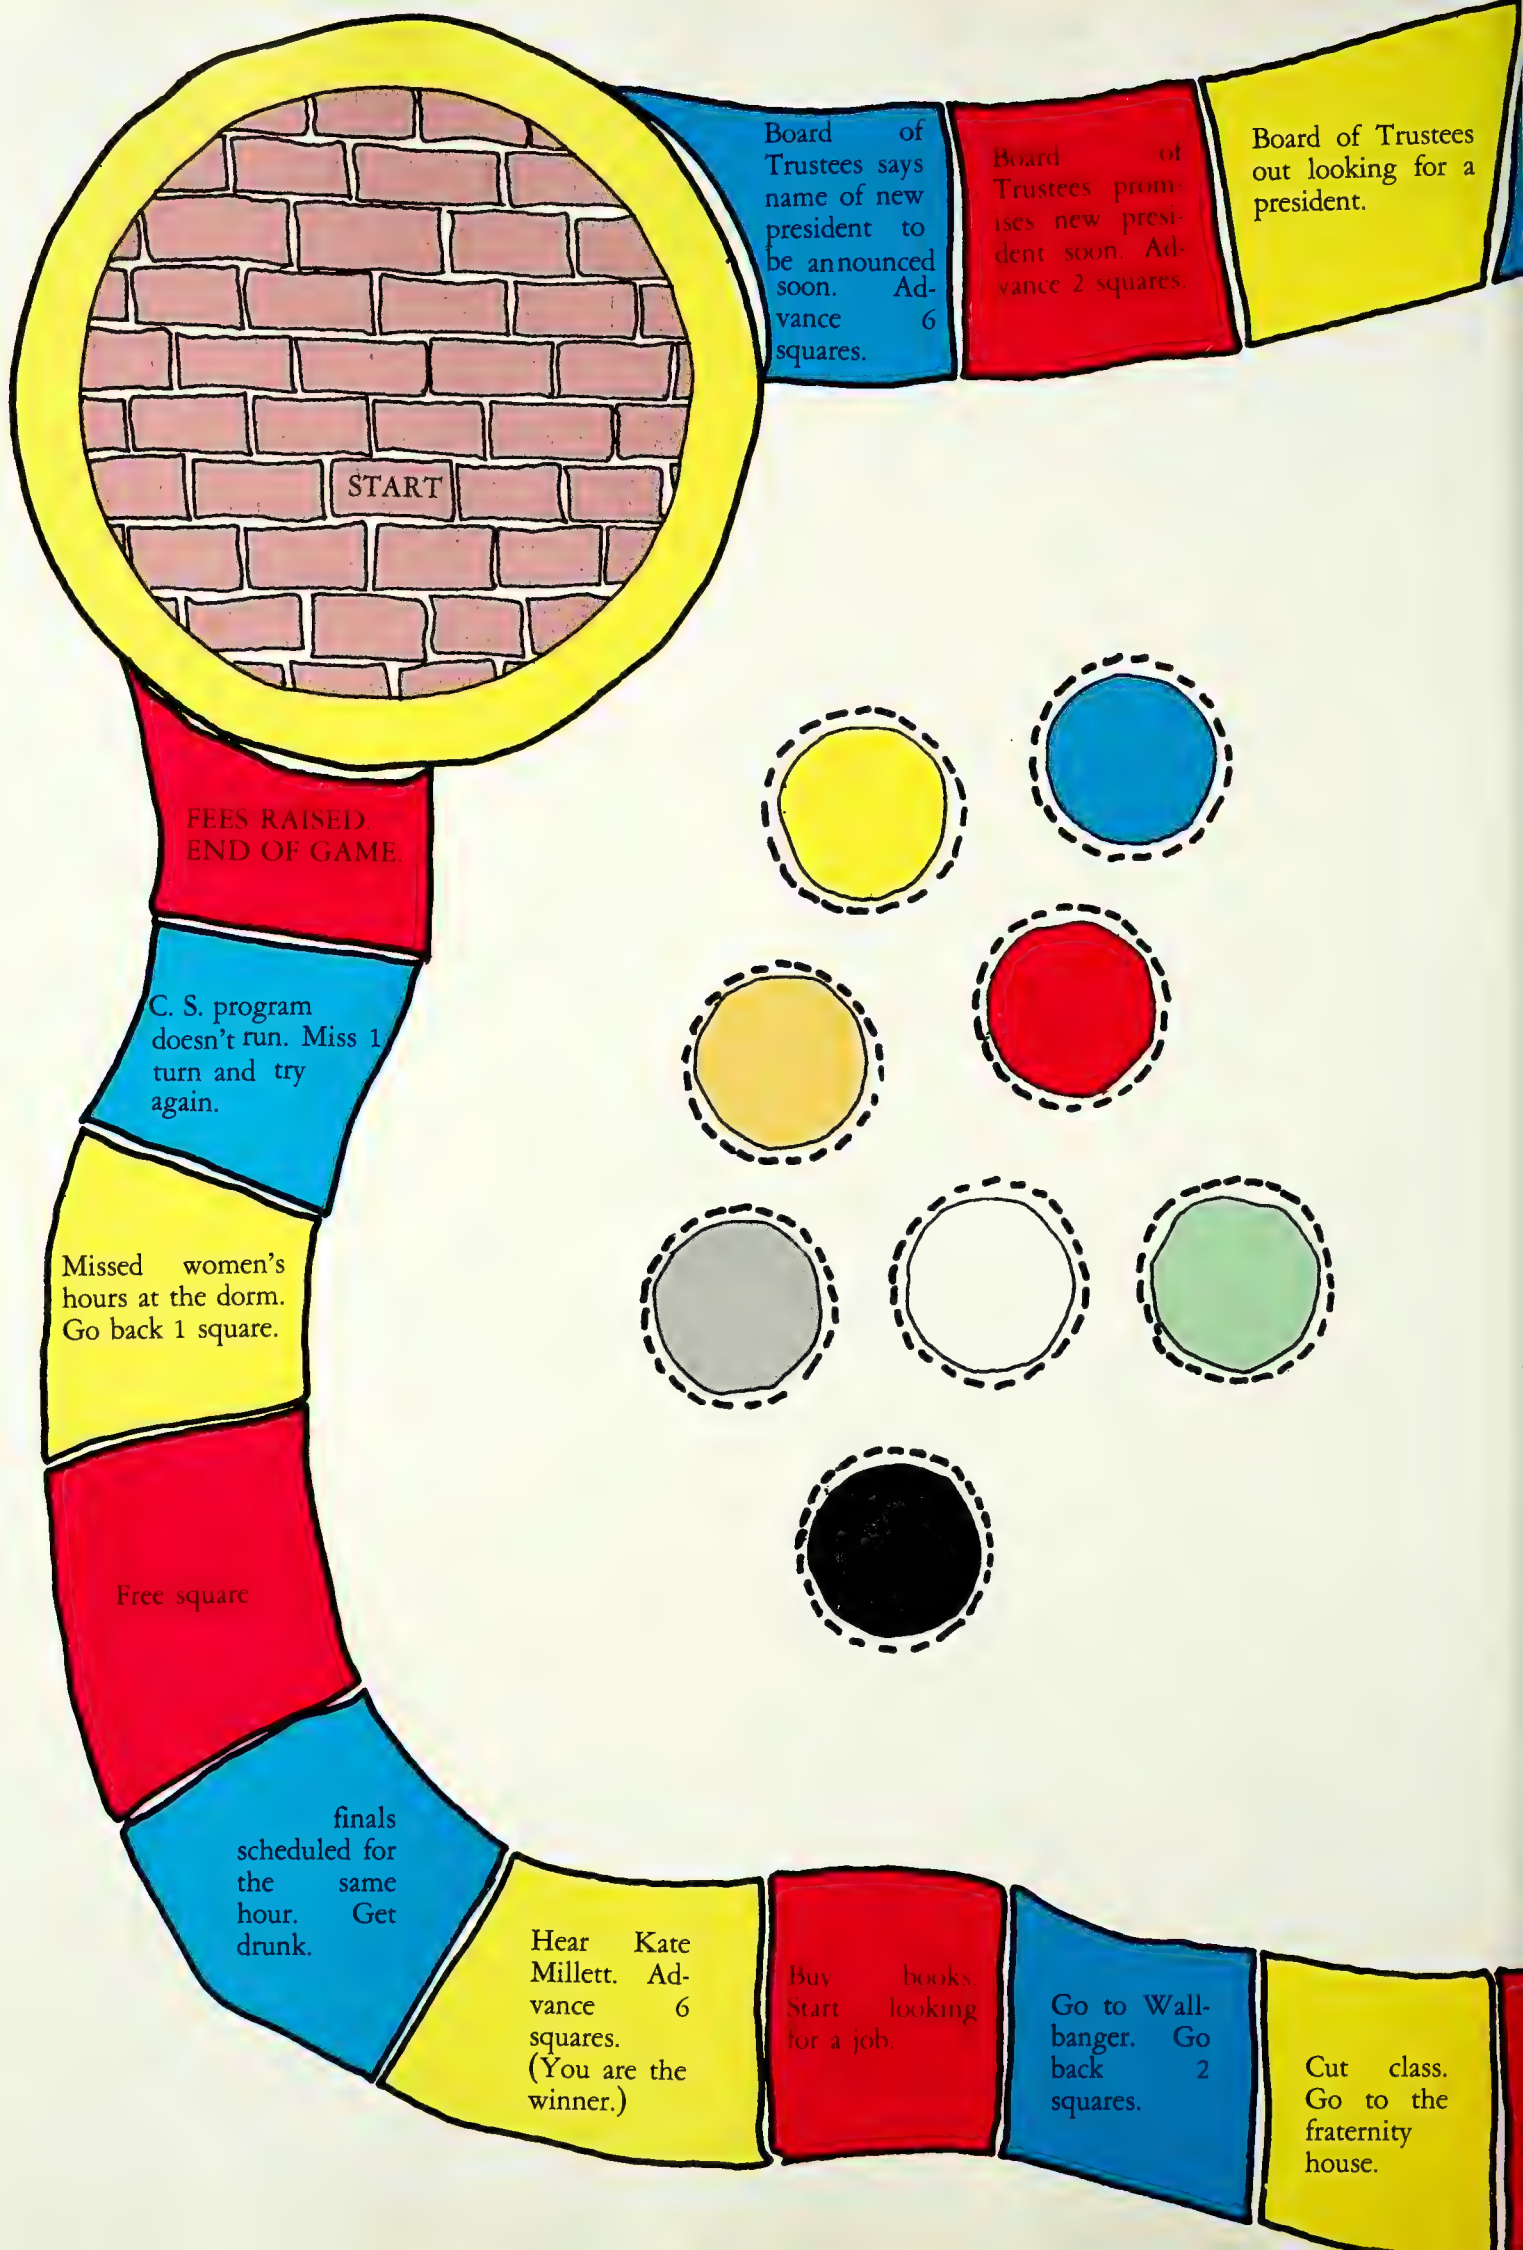

5. Winning the Game

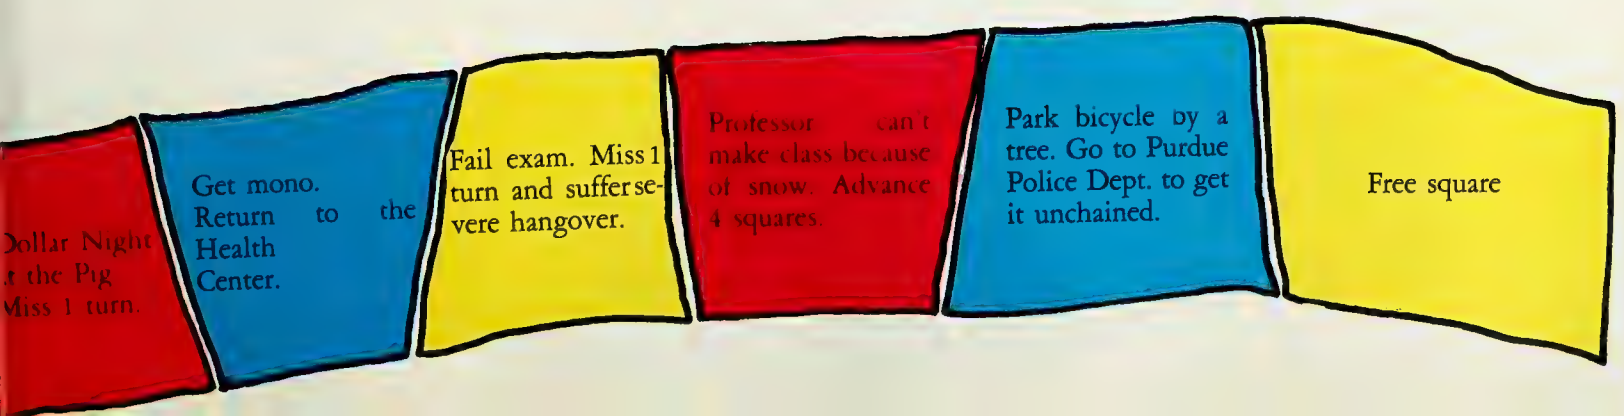

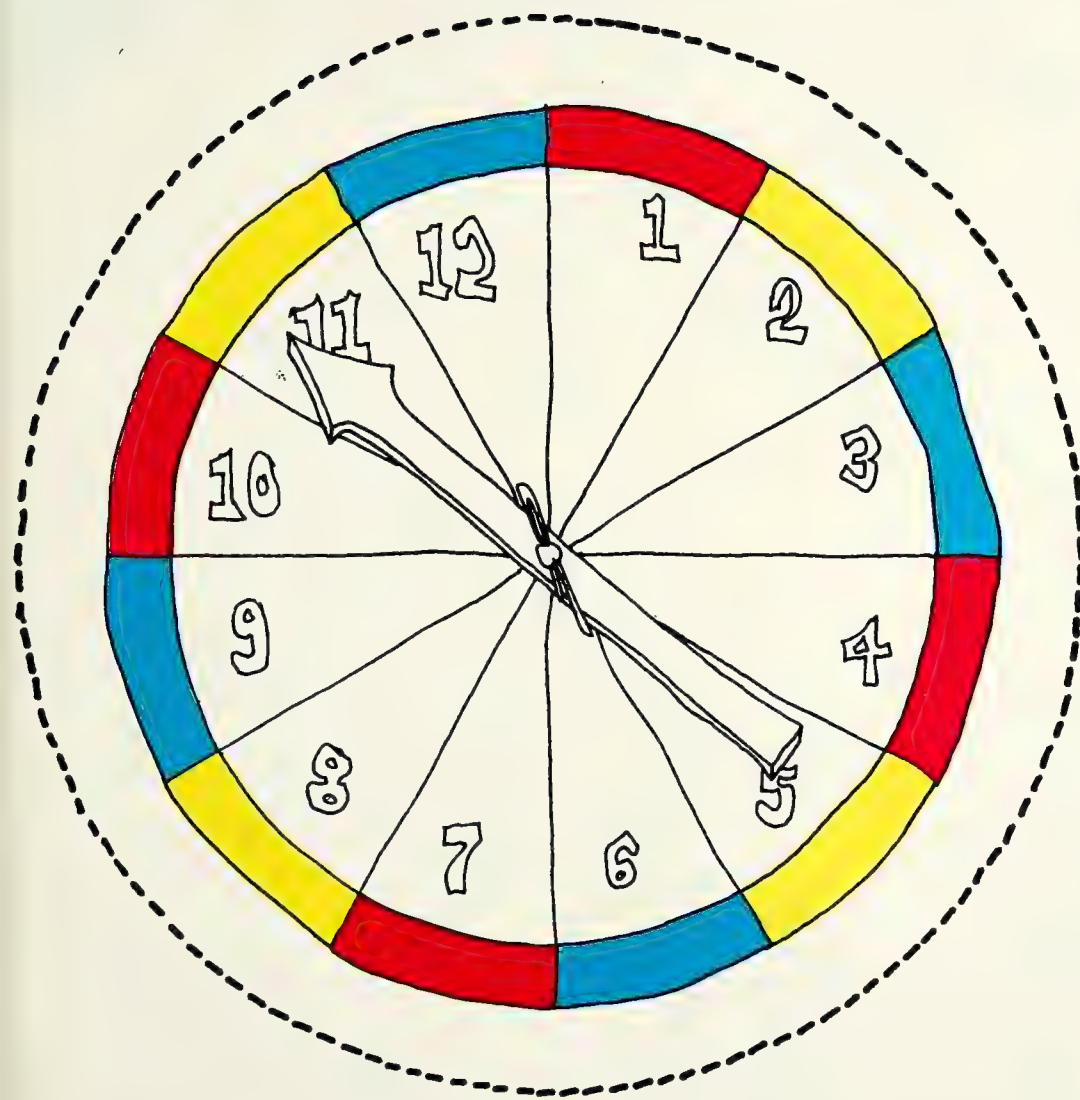

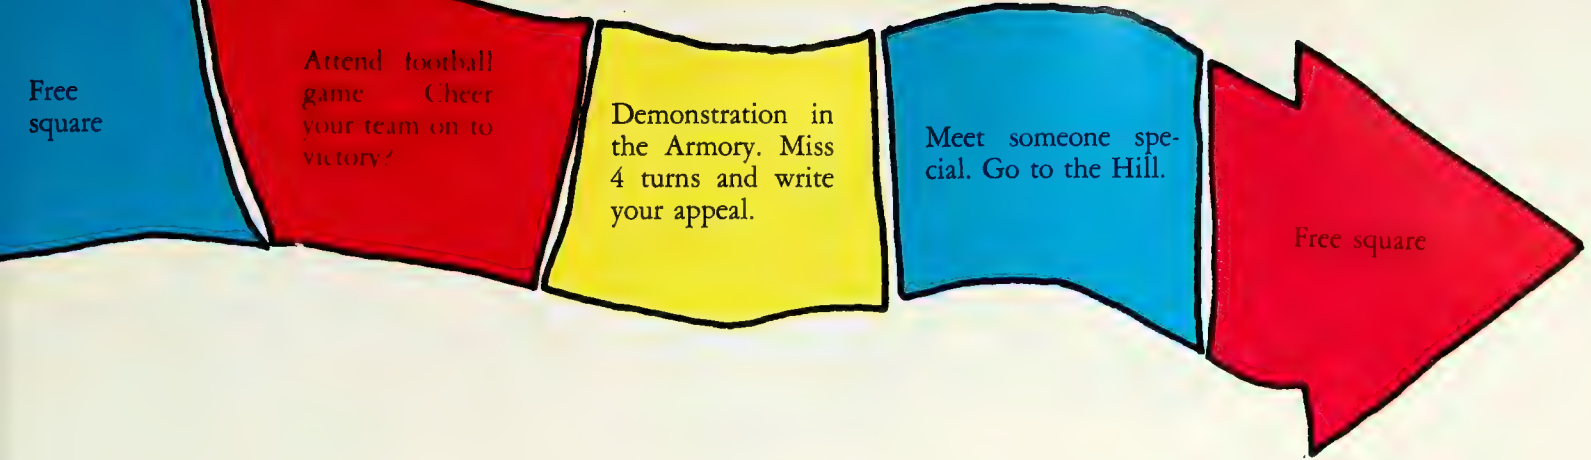

The winner of The Game of Purdue is the first player to complete the gameboard and land on the square marked "Fees Raised, End of Game." The game is immediately discontinued because players have run out of money.

We wish you luck in achieving your goal of a college education.

Baseball

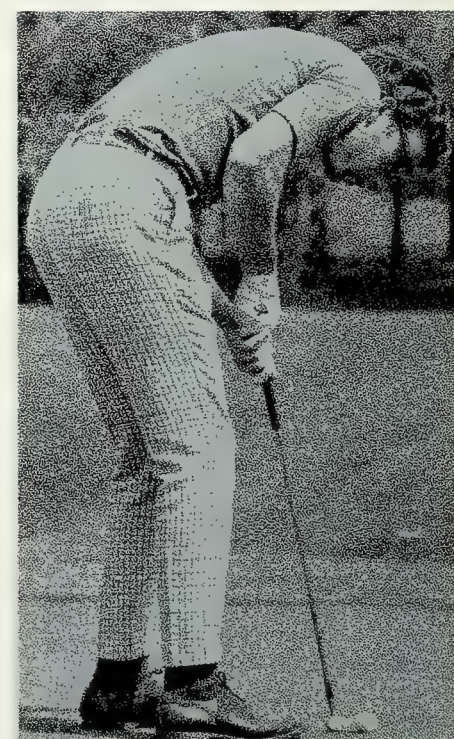

In the past minor sports at Purdue have taken a back seat to the other schools in the Big Ten. Baseball has been no exception, sporting a 13-41 record for the past two seasons. But enthusiasm and hard work finally produced a winner. Coach Joe Sexson's men won more games in 1970 than in the '68 and '69 seasons combined. Backed by a capable pitching staff, Coach Sexson devoted much practice time to batting. First baseman Rick Tekavec led the team in hitting, along with sluggers Lee Martin and Terry Wedgewood. Consistent pitching was turned in by Don Sandburg and Bill Johnson. Backing up the regulars were a flock of newcomers, led by freshman pitcher Nick Sahaidachny.

First Baseman Rick Tekavec

Golf

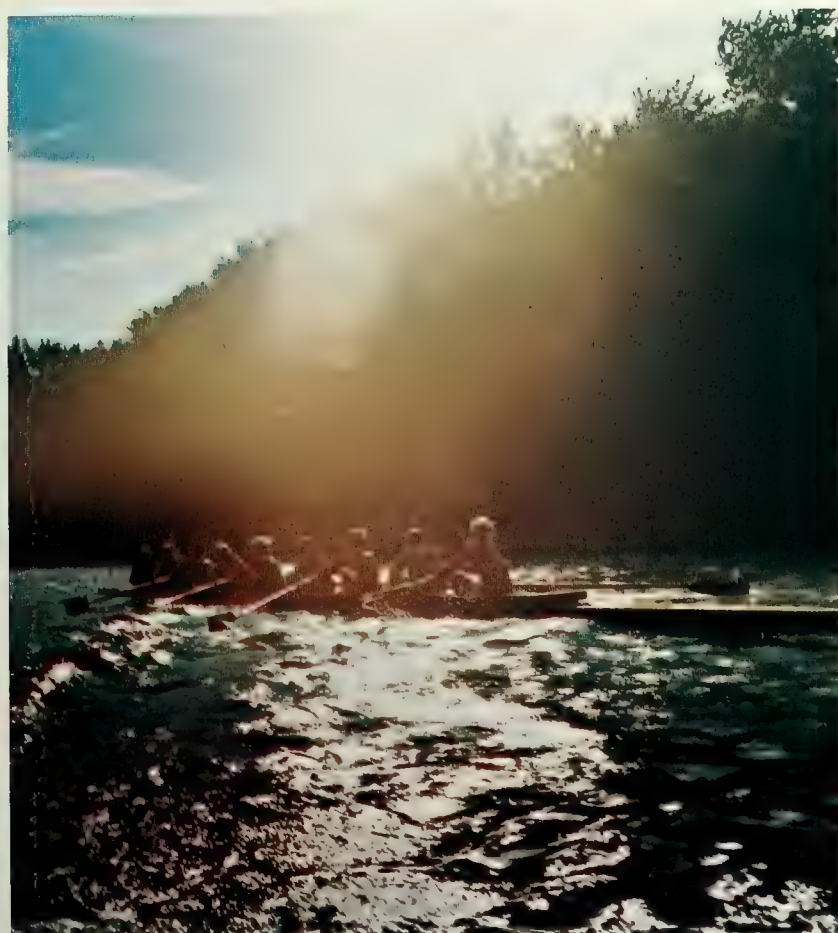

For golf, 1970 was the year that could have been, and almost was. The same team that placed second in the 1969 Big Ten competition dropped to fifth place last spring. Number two man Bill Hoffer's absence from the tournament handicapped the Boiler's conference play. The high point in the season was the strong 10th place finish the NCAA final. Top man Fred Clark showed consistent and well controlled play, while Jeff Radder filled in with needed low scores in crucial moments. The individual strength and skill of team members was a credit to Purdue last season.

Crew

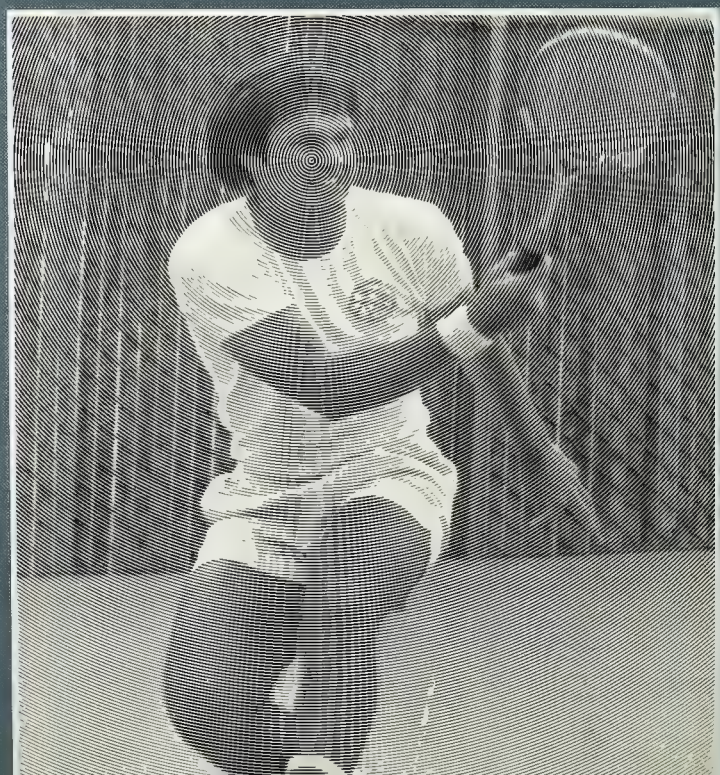

The demands of crew are rigid: strength, endurance, teamwork. But few sports can match the silent speed and beauty of the Purdue crew. Coach Neil scheduled heavy practice in anticipation of the six-meet season. At the end of the spring, the oarsmen returned home from a successful eastern trip with a strong showing in two of the nation's largest regattas. The freshman and junior varsity did especially well, and promise to form a strong nucleus for next year's team.

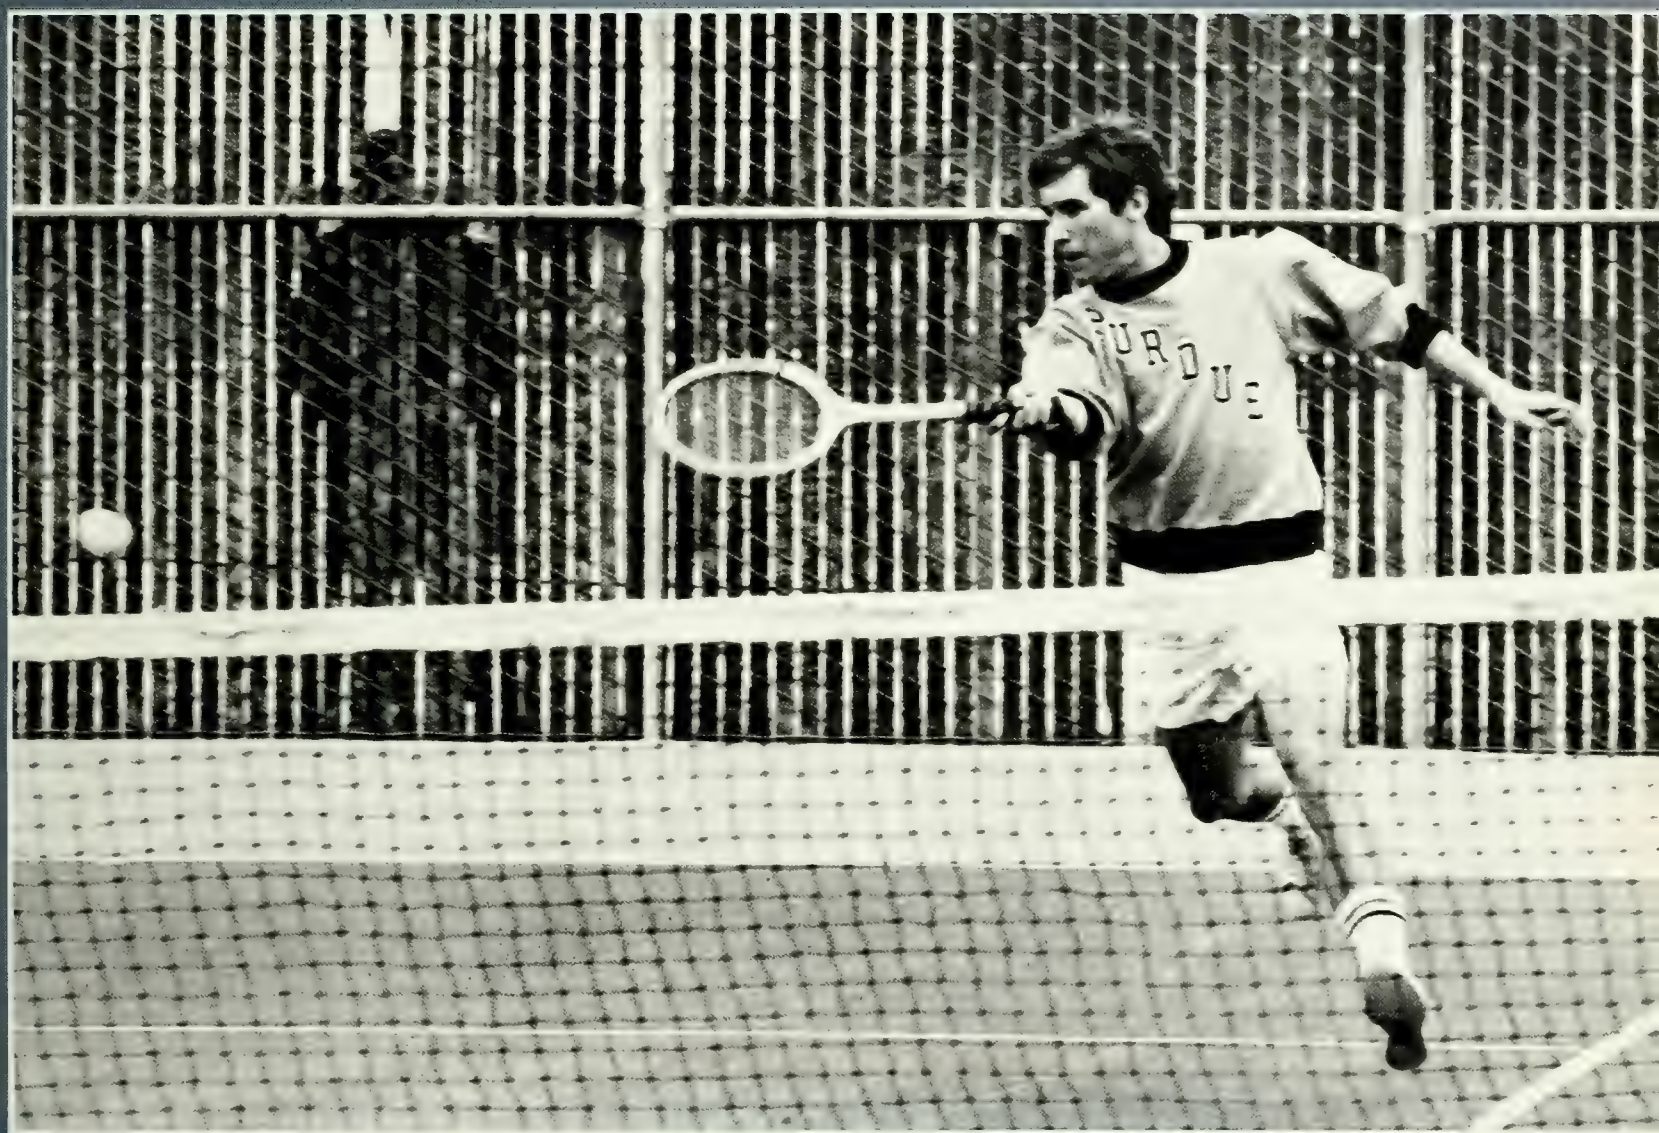

Please God, let me win.

Tennis

1970 proved to be a season in which the Boiler netmen matched the comparable opposition, but couldn't overcome the more experienced Big Ten teams. Although two-thirds of the squad had only limited varsity experience, the team compiled a respectable 7-11 record. The season began with freshman Nick Giordano in the number one position; halfway through the season Jim Mansfield stepped into the top spot. Following in line was Richard Cochran, who showed well at the end of the season and in the conference tournament. Coach Eicholz is very optimistic about the coming season, with nearly all of his letterwinners returning.

Track

1970 was indeed a rebuilding year for Purdue track. Key injuries and inexperience plagued the Boilers. Although the young squad did perform to the best of their abilities, the team as a whole registered a poor record. Ten seemed to be a jinx, as we placed last in both the indoor and outdoor Big Ten meets. Ray Ashworth and Mike Zachary set new Purdue records in the distance events, while Larry McAfee and Jim Jackson did likewise in the middle distances. Dan Morgan was selected as most valuable member. The future looks definitely brighter for Coach Rankin. With twenty-four returning lettermen, plus fifteen freshmen competing for varsity positions, team strength should be improved, especially in the field events.

Rugby

Existing only as an idea last January, the newly formed rugby squad ran, crashed and boomed its way to a fine 5-4 season record. Few ventures have proved so successful as the formation of the rugby team. John I'Anson, Todd Davis and John Burns enlisted players and teamed up to organize the squad. President Hovde, an outstanding rugby player at Oxford University, also lent support. After a few practice sessions, the ruggers came on to thump Miami of Ohio by a 29-3 count. The remainder of the season brought on other tough opponents, including the U. of Illinois and the Indy Rugby Club.

Grand Prix, '70. It was the weekend of Acacia's "Milk and Cookie Special," a rain-soaked carnival, and the visible expression of student disgust with the V² — Pop Stars Committee.

Box office lines were significantly short, while student preferential orders were nonexistent. Come Saturday night, a near empty Hall of Music testified that townspeople + alums $\neq$ profit. The result? Eventual revamping of the Student Entertainment Committee and a promise of better things to come.

Amid the boycott, the tee-shirts, and the rumperstickers — the race.

THE MALL SPRING CIRCUS

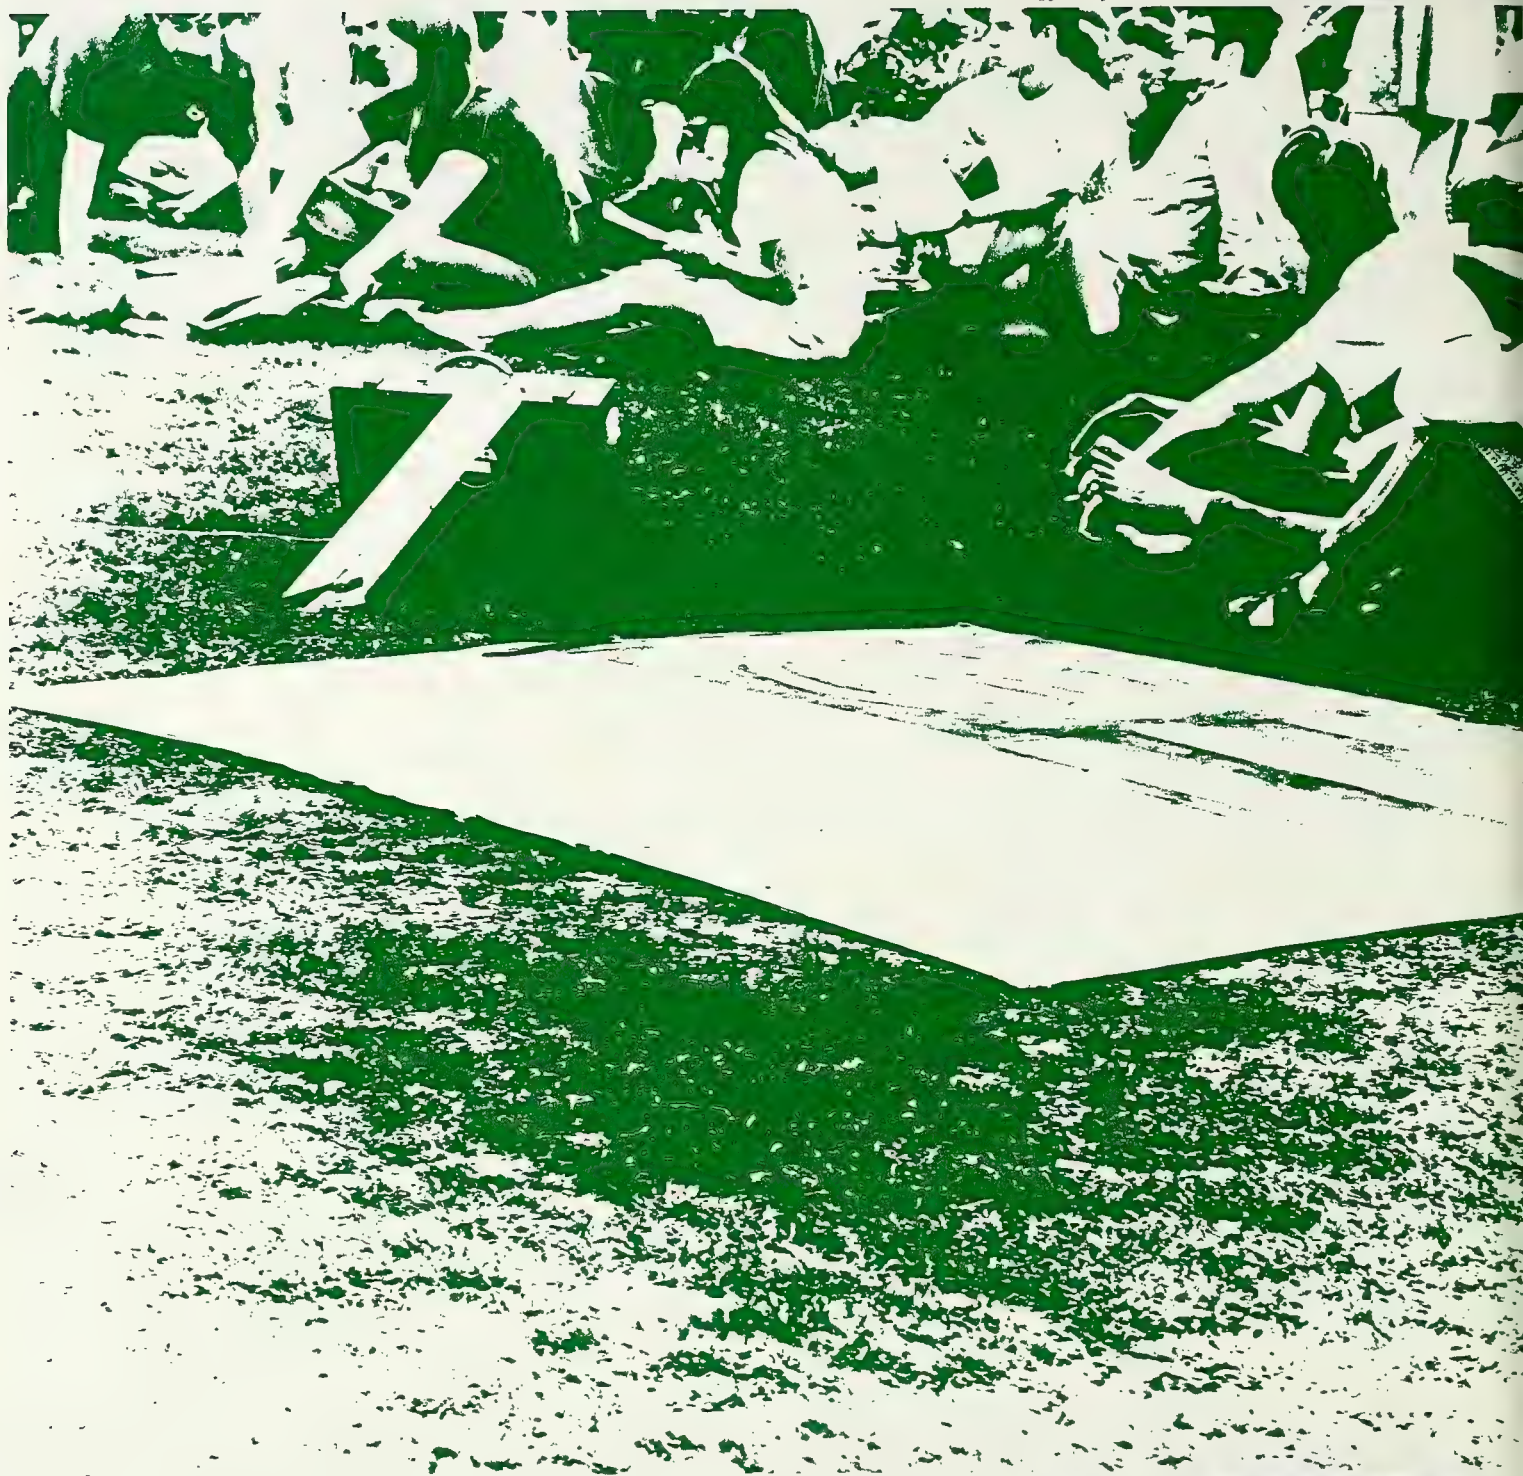

We showed the bearded man the buildings and the crowd, the streets and the posters that went on forever;
The sweat and the books and the cameras and the ivy and brick and rain and a smokestack above watering eyes
And night and pavement and black-white signs and the Saturdays and games and the bells and pearled pins.
And he asked with wonder:
"But where is the university?"

And three of us wept.

I am a mirror of the mass —
Here in this crowd.
For you are the measure of myself.
Feeling questions but no answers
Feeling sounds and no words
Feeling words without meanings.

If I turn my head,
I can see more than I see now.
Yesterday taught not
What tomorrow will teach.
And today's teachings are not clear.

But puzzles are still
Black and White

Joy, joy, sweet joy

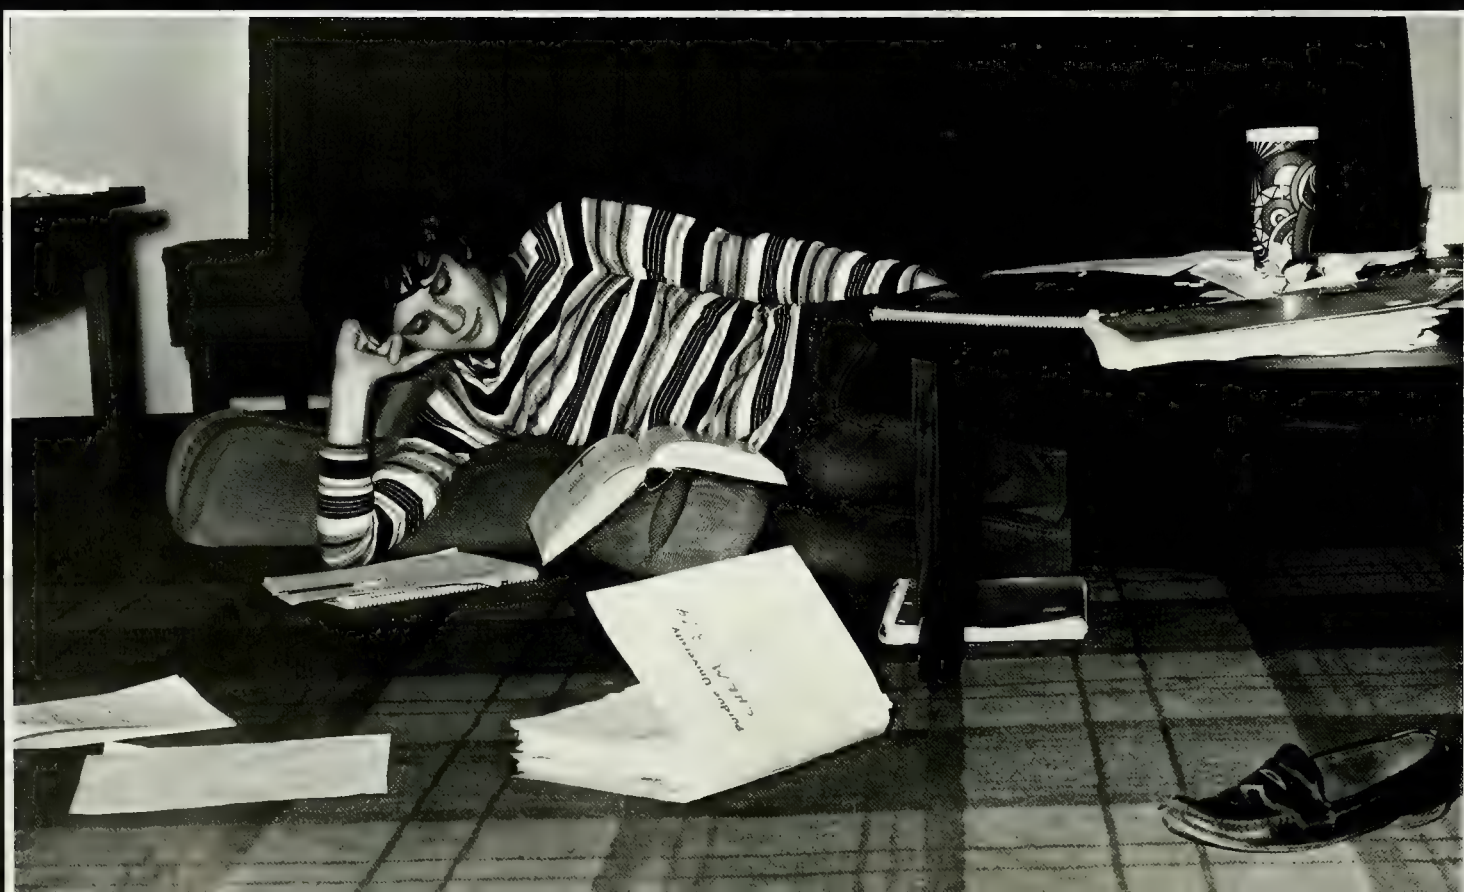

Joy, joy, sweet joy.

GRADUATE HOUSE WEST

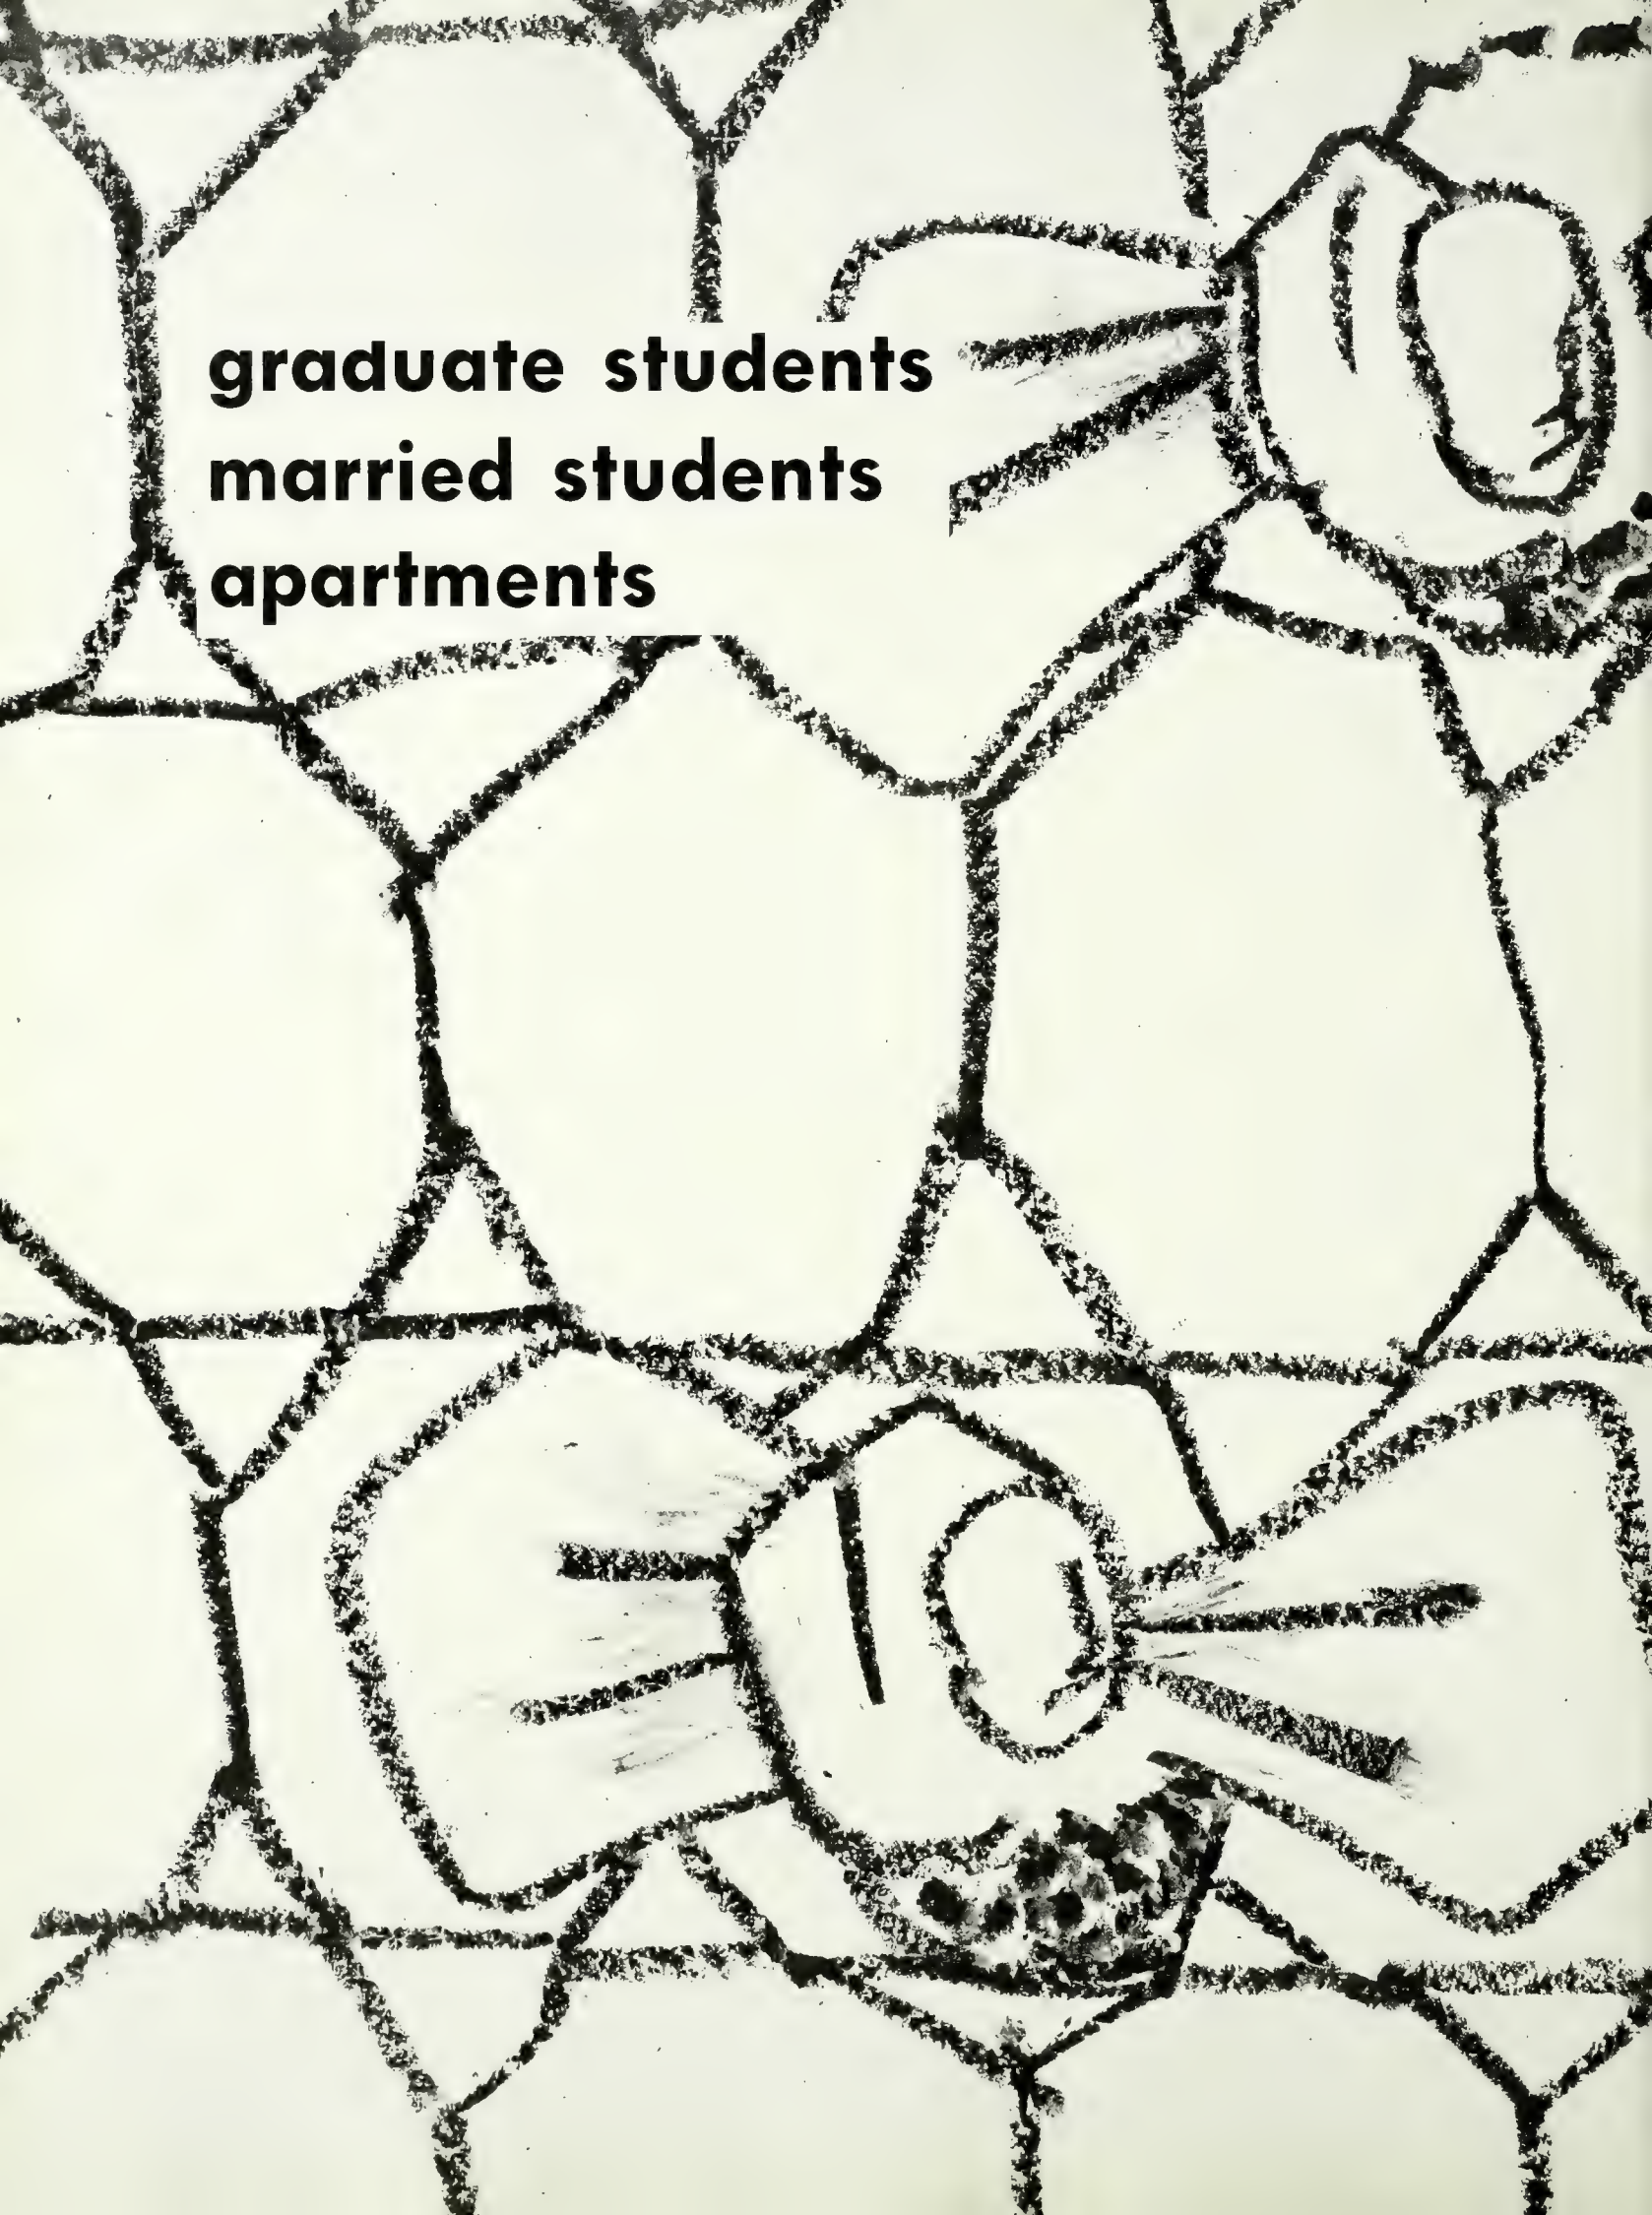

Grad House living represents freedom; freedom from the drudgery of apartment cleaning and cooking, freedom from fraternal obligations, and freedom from dorm restrictions. Grad House dwellers enjoy daily maid service, private room phones, comfort air-conditioning, and quiet carpeted hallways. In their union-catered cafeteria, students pay for only those meals they actually eat. On cold and rainy days a quick tunnel trip takes the Grad House resident from his cozy room right to the heart of campus. What more could one ask for?

FOR RENT

APARTMENT EXCELLENT FOR COLLEGE students. Test your creativity- interior and exterior decorating can be a great outlet for inner frustrations, whether caused by tests or past-due rent. Take it all out on your landlord. Never again will a hall counselor tell you to turn down your stereo. No more trade parties or chapter meetings! Burn all the incense and candles you want. Make all the noise you want. Party until 4 a.m. No one cares (except the neighbors and they won't say anything if you invite them). Unlimited open visitation at no extra charge. Superb chance to learn how to cook. NO MORE DORM MEALS! Good location- behind liquor store; grocery store and laundromat on each side. Studying??? Well, anything's possible.

How do I love thee?
Let me count the ways . . .

I love how you squeeze the toothpaste . . .
In the middle of the tube.
I love how you tug the covers . . .
While I freeze by your side.
I love how you watch TV . . .
While I do the dishes.

And how do you love me?
Let me count the ways . . .

You love the rollers in my hair at breakfast.
You love how I scorch your favorite shirt.
You love my phone calls to mother,
A thousand miles away.

THEN I GRADUATED . . .

"I despise it here, but I like it in ways, too. I chose to come here; I wanted to get away from New York. New York is a fantastically dreadful place to live, but then again so is this. Lafayette is very quiet and peaceful. You can sort of escape from the rest of the world." Hy Mariampolski reflects his ideas about Lafayette and Purdue. "Grad students aren't really given advantages of either students or faculty. We're victimized by the disadvantages of both. We have no job security or legal rights from the faculty standpoint, and really no advantages of being a student, either. The university and the students treat us ambiguously. We're placed in a definite role conflict. As for the Sociology Department, the people are very close to each other. Graduate students are very serious about their work and I think we're all very together about a lot of things; study, friendships, etc."

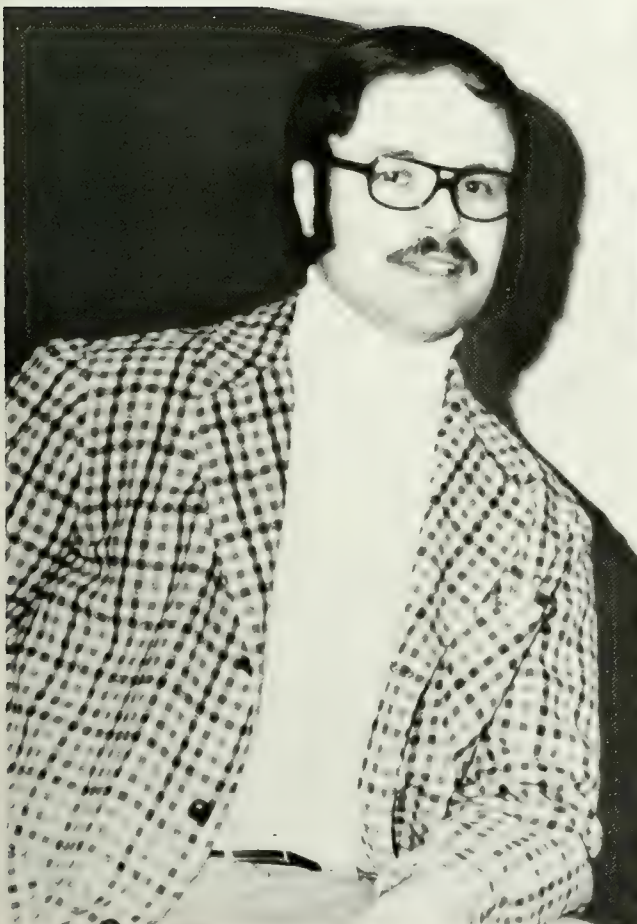

"Having gotten my bachelor's degree at C.C.N.Y., I was offered generous financial support by Purdue to do graduate work in economics. Coming to Lafayette from New York City was like going from the world back into the womb." This was the reaction of John Sorrentino. Of Purdue he says: "I feel that much power should be taken from the administration and given to students and faculty." Of students he feels: "Most are traveling along as insecure egos groping for acceptance. They are quick to form cliques. Graduate students are often excluded from these." Finally, he speaks of teaching: "Teaching to me is an exciting part of my life at Purdue. It will be my life's work, and getting to know and to help people will make it worthwhile."

Duane Bokhart, a graduate student working on his MSIA (Master of Science in Industrial Administration), says the more he sees of Purdue the more he likes it, at least in the field of management. "There is group participation and co-operation outside as well as inside class. A lot of my friends are the people in my classes, I guess maybe because we all see each other so much. We build close, friendly relationships, and I think that's great, because people are the key to management, not the money."

"They allow me to develop my interests here, and I like that. They respect individual differences. Study is programmed for the individual and everybody in the department of communications is willing to help." These thoughts about the Graduate Study Program here at Purdue are those of Bob Vogel, a doctoral candidate whose specialization is Instructional and Educational Television. "I've worked a lot in the entertainment field and I possess a need to express myself creatively. Instructional and Educational Television fulfills this need while helping others."

And your best be for your friend. If he know the ebb of your tide, let him know it, and also.

For what is your friend that you should speak him with hours to kill?

See him always with hours to live.

For his to fill your need, but not your emptiness.

And in the sweetness of friendship let there be laughter, and sharing of pleasures.

For in the dew of little things the heart finds its morning and is refreshed.
